MEEKER SCHOOL UNABLE TO OPEN IN SEPTEMBER

Public Subscription of $6,000 Only Solution, County Superintendent Claims

PLAN THREE-MILL LEVY

If Measure Fails Same Situation Will Be Faced in 1928

Unless $6,000 is raised by popular subscription to make up the existing operating deficits for the coming school year which begins in September Meeker Centralized School will not open its doors until after Jan. 1, 1928.

Announcement of the school's financial condition was made today by Charles B. Rayburn, county school superintendent.

Whether or not a similar situation will exist in September 1928 will depend upon the outcome of a proposed three-mill levy to be voted on at the November election, defeated at the two last elections.

Another Problem

Even with school opening after the first of the year the board is faced with the problem of hiring a superintendent and six teachers at mid-term, a proposition that presents many difficulties.

In an effort to find a workable solution to this problem a meeting has been called for next Friday night. All persons living in this school district have been urged to attend.

One thing is certain. The school can not be opened without operating funds which must be contributed without thought of return, Superintendent Rayburn stated today. Loans can not be accepted, he said, under the present laws of Ohio governing school operation.

Trouble Two Years Ago

A similar condition to this existed two years ago and for a time it appeared that the school would have to be closed. The matter was taken up with Vernon M. Riegel, state supervisor of education, who declared the district a state aid section. Riegel temporarily solved the problem by ordering a three-mill levy placed on the district's duplicate amounting to approximately $2,000,000. This brought in the necessary $6,000.

This solution to the school's problem of finances was destined to be short-lived. W. R. Halstand, former Marion County school superintendent and who is now in charge of state aid with the Ohio Department of Education, declared the district not entitled to state aid. This action was taken about a month ago.

In explaining the present financial condition of the school the superintendent said that the next five years will be the most difficult. At the end of that time bonds issued to take care of past indebtedness will have been retired and the district will be free of all but the building debt.

Cost $70,000

The school was constructed about seven years ago at a cost of $60,000. Since that time approximately $10,000 has been expended in the purchase of additional equipment and supplementing the heating plant.

The school serves Montgomery and all parts of Salt Rock and Big Island Townships.

In the event persons living in the district wish to send their children to other schools in the county the cost of their tuition will be declared a lien against the district.

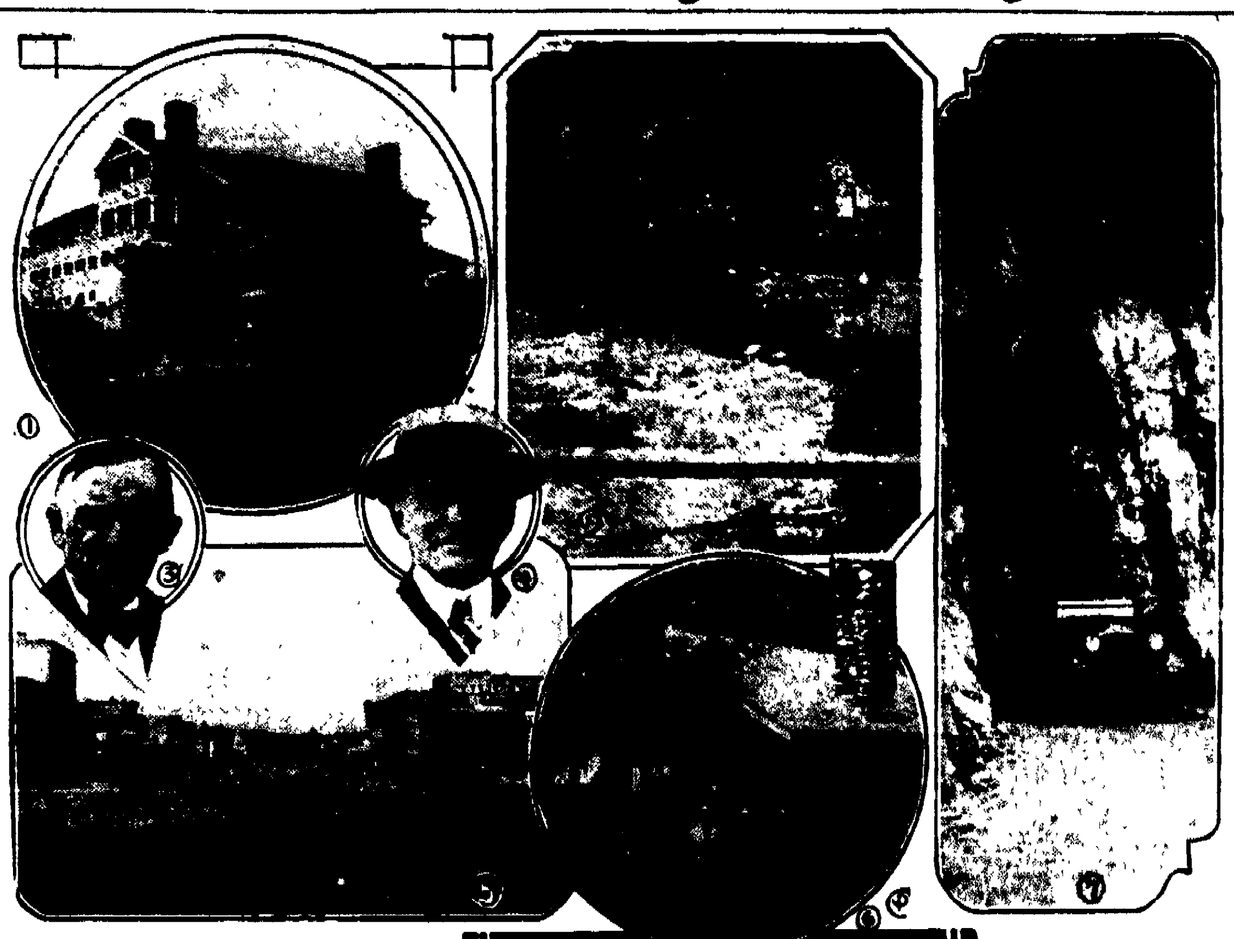
Here's What Coolidges Are Seeing



President and Mrs. Coolidge have expressed great delight over their choice of the Black Hills of South Dakota as a summer retreat. Here are photos just received: (1) State Game Lodge, as it looks now as the summer home of the Chief Executive of the nation; (2) Squaw Creek, where the President has found fishing good; (3) Governor W. LINDY BEGINS PLANS FOR BUSINESS, TOUR

Flier Intends To Link His Future to Commercial Aviation

St Louis, June 20—Turning aside from public functions and popular acclaim, Col. Charles A Lindbergh today began planning his business future and an aerial tour of the country in the interest of aviation.

While offers, involving millions of dollars and a variety of business opportunities have been showered upon America's air idol, it was definitely learned that he intends to link his future to commercial aviation. His closest associates revealed that Lindy now plans to center his business activities on the development of transatlantic commercial air lines, with St. Louis as a hub. He will make his headquarters in St. Louis too, the city which he frequently has described as his "home."

Steps To Be Announced

The first steps of the air king's scheduled tour of the country will be announced in a few days. He will accept as many as he humanly can of the fifty invitations given him to visit different cities, it was said. His tentative route will be arranged too so as to permit him to fly over the maximum number of cities and towns in order that the greatest possible number of people will be able to see his plane in flight if they cannot get a glimpse of the hero in person.

Lindy was reported anxious to visit all sections of the country. The invitations already extended him, if accepted, would carry him from Detroit on the Canadian border to New Orleans on the Gulf coast, from San Francisco on the Pacific to Boston on the Atlantic. If the youth has his way, he undoubtedly will visit them all.

Attends Conference

The tour however, will be arranged on the advice of Lindy's financial backers. He attended one conference last

AIRPLANE IS WRECKED IN MAKING LANDING

Sistersville, W. Va., June 20—An airplane manned by Leo Terletzky and Charles Prohinsie, both of New York, was wrecked in making a landing near Martinsville, W. Va., late Sunday, while enroute from Troy, O., to New York. The fliers got off their course, attempted to land in a wheat field to ascertain directions, and the ship plunged nose first into the soft mud. Neither man was injured.

PLANS LONG FLIGHT

Youngstown, June 20—Fred Kleaner, 24, says he is making plans to attempt an airplane flight from San Francisco to Hawaii in the near future. Kleaner has been making exhibition flights in Detroit.

All Filling Stations Must Be Equipped With Devices To Prevent Shortage, Claim

Operators Must Comply with State Regulations by July 1, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas Announces; Survey of County Being Made

All automobile filling stations in Marion County must be equipped on or before July 1 with appliances required by state regulations to protect motorists against short measure, County Auditor Earl E. Thomas announced today.

Thomas, who has charge of the county's department of weights and measures, states that June 30 has been fixed as the final date for complying with state requirements and that owners of filling stations who fail to have satisfactory equipment installed then will be liable to the penalties provided by law.

Survey Started

Preliminary to placing the order in effect, Auditor Thomas has started a survey in which he expects to inspect every gasoline pump in the county to ascertain how many will have to be repaired or replaced in order to meet state requirements. He is being assisted in the work by W. A. Sutter, an inspector from the division of weights and measures of the state department of agriculture, Deputy Auditor Harry Smith and County Sealer J. T. Mason.

Last week Thomas, Sutter and Smith spent an entire day inspecting filling stations in the city of Marion and vicinity and found that there are many place where new equipment will be required.

$50 Pumps in County

There are approximately 350 gasoline pumps in the county and it is estimated that at least 200 of these must be repaired or replaced by new pumps. There will be comparatively few instances, Auditor Thomas believes, where pumps will have to be entirely removed and new ones installed. Investigation has shown that installation of additional appliances will bring pumps now in use up to requirements.

Thomas said today that he has met representatives of practically all of the larger oil companies operating in the county and that all have readily agreed to act promptly in complying with regulations. These companies have already ordered new equipment where it will be required and installation will get under way at once, the auditor was informed.

State Inspector Sutter will be here

CLARK IS DISBARRED FROM DISTRICT COURT

Federal Judge Westenhaven Hands Down Decision During Canton Man's Hearing

Cleveland, June 20—George H. Clark, Canton attorney, and former state supreme court justice, today was disbarred forever from the practice of law in the United States District Court of the northern district of Ohio, following a hearing on charges of misappropriation of assets of the defunct American Cycle Co. of Canton, while acting as attorney for Don Krug, receiver of the concern.

Federal Judge D Westenhaver, before whom the hearing was held, in rendering his disbarment decision, said:

"In view of the evidence I must render a decision that the defendant is guilty of malpractice and professional misconduct, involving moral turpitude.

"I therefore decree that George H. Clark be forever barred from the practice of law in the United States District Courth of the northern district of Ohio and that his name be stricken from the rolls of attorneys entitled to practice therein." Judge Westenhaver's voice shook, but did not break as he read his decision.

Asked if he had anything to say before the decision was made, Clark replied that he did not. He showed little emotion, following the reading, and immediately left the courtroom.

Auto Club Indorses Star's Efforts to Acquaint Motorists With Traffic Rules

Plans of the Star to acquaint motorists with the city's traffic regulations by daily printing sections of the code in box form today were officially indorsed by The Marion Auto Club through its president, George Whysall.

In connection with his approval of this method of presenting the city's traffic ordinance to Star readers Mr. Whysall called attention to several facts which he claims motorists and pedestrians are overlooking.

In the first place, Mr. Whysall points out, the traffic signals erected at street intersections were designed primarily as a protection to pedestrians. Under the present traffic code governing the operation of these signal standards motorists are not to put their machines in motion until the signal "Go" is flashed.

Use of Signals

The sign "Change," Mr. Whysall explained is to notify motorists to get ready to move if their progress has been blocked by the "Stop" signal and to prepare to stop if they are approaching the intersection.

Instead of slowing down on a "Change" signal, Mr. Whysall claims, motorists speed up and try to get through the intersection before the red "Stop" signal appears on the standard. Likewise motorists who say waiting for the lights to change start up before the signal switches from "Change" to "Go."

This procedure, Mr. Whysall points out, defeats the very purpose for which the signal were intended, that of protecting pedestrians.

Motorists, however, are not the only persons who violate the rules, Mr. Whysall claims. "Jay walking, which, it was hoped, the signal would eliminate, continues, according to observation.

Unless the rules governing the operation of traffic at intersections equipped with traffic signs are observed the signs are so much useless equipment, Mr. Whysall concluded.

IF JOHN WERE HERE

Florence Trumbull Smiles When Asked About Reported Engagement

Chicago, June 20—"Wouldn't it be wonderful if John were here!"

So said Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, here today to act as a bridesmaid for Miss Annamae L. Houston.

When she spoke of John, she meant John Coolidge, son of the president.

Miss Trumbull neither affirmed nor denied her reported engagement to the president's son. She only smiled and blushed.

"Will you be getting married soon?" she was asked.

"Oh, not for a while. Really I do not know. I can't say," she replied.

TWO KILLED AND THREE HURT IN CROSSING CRASH

Gaiety of Sunday Fishing Party Takes Tragic Turn at Upper Sandusky

FATHER, SON VICTIMS

Outing Host Still Unconscious Following Accident at Hocking Intersection

(Special to The Star)

Upper Sandusky, June 20—Gaiety of a Sunday fishing party turned to tragedy here yesterday afternoon when two of five Upper Sandusky and Tiffin persons were instantly killed and the remaining three seriously injured when their car was struck by a Hocking Valley passenger train at the Spring-st crossing here.

The dead are a father and son, Howard Straub, 33, and Robert, 7, of 215 W. Bigelow-st, Upper Sandusky. Mrs. Straub, 29, an infant son, Howard, Jr., and Forrest L. Niswender, 35, of 77 Hunter-st, Tiffin, and the fishing party host, are the injured.

Striking the Essex coach in which the party was riding with great force, engine of train No. 33, northbound, of the Hocking Valley, threw it into a field adjacent to the crossing. All occupants save the 10-month-old Howard Straub, Jr., were thrown 150 feet from the car. The infant was imprisoned in the car wreckage and was rescued by the train porter.

Neck Broken

The elder Straub suffered a broken neck and right leg. His chest was crushed. Robert also suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries. Both died instantly.

Niswender sustained a fractured skull. Reports this morning from Mercy Hospital, Tiffin, where the three were taken, stated that hopes are held for his recovery. He was still unconscious today. Mrs. Straub and Howard, Jr., will live, attaches say. The former sustained a fractured left shoulder and severe cuts on her arm and body. Howard, Jr., was cut and bruised.

Several weeks ago, Niswender promised Robert Straub to take him fishing and yesterday had fulfilled his promise with a trip to Indian Lake.

Niswender approached the Spring-st crossing from the west. The view of the tracks at this point is obstructed by the buildings of the Wyandot Clay Products Co. It is believed that he drove on to the tracks unaware of the train's approach. Coroner L. W. Naus had not yet given a verdict in the case but stated this morning that it would likely be death by accident.

Howard Straub was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Straub, Tiffin. The father and two sisters survive. Howard had lived in Upper Sandusky for a number of years and for several weeks past was employed in Sam Krebs' garage at Carey as a mechanic. Funeral arrangements for the two victims have not yet been announced.

PROGRAM WOULD ELIMINATE ALL COMPETITION

U. S. Suggests 5-5-3 Capital Ship Ratio Be Extended to Other Craft

GENEVA PARLEY OPENS

Nation Also Willing To Consider Abolition of Submarines by World Pact

Geneva, June 20—A concrete proposal designed to eliminate the last vestige of naval competition between the great powers was laid before the Geneva arms conference today by the American delegation.

The American program, boiled down, was that the 5-5-3 ratios of capital ship strength, established at the Washington conference six years ago, be extended to cover all remaining classes of fighting craft.

If agreed to by the participating powers, Great Britain and Japan, the British and American navies eventually will be of the same size, ship for ship, class for class, and that of Japan will be of the ratio 3 to 5.

Four Classes Set Up

For practical purposes the American proposal established four classes of ships to be dealt with in the proposed new treaty, which is to be supplemental to the Washington treaty.

These classes were: The cruiser class, the destroyer class, the submarine class, and an exempt class that includes all other types such as supply ships, tenders, mine-sweepers, etc.

In the cruiser class the American proposal was that the United States and Great Britain limit their tonnage to not exceeding 300,000 tons as against 180,000 for Japan.

In the destroyer class the tonnage limitation for Great Britain and the United States would be 250,000 as against 150,000 for Japan. In the submarine class 90,000 tons was proposed as the limit for Great Britain and the United States as against 54,000 for Japan.

Would Abolish Subs

In this connection, Hugh S. Gibson, chairman of the American delegation, informed his British and Japanese colleagues that the United States is willing to consider the abolition of all submarines if a world agreement to that effect can be negotiated. France and Italy, however, refused to entertain such a proposal at the Washington conference and as they are not active participants in the present conference it is assumed that the abolition of submarines cannot be accomplished here.

If the American plan were adopted and if the limit of cruisers were fixed at 300,000 tons, and of destroyers at 250,000 tons, the United States would have to scrap approximately 62,000 tons of vessels of either the cruiser or the destroyer type and 30,000 additional tons in these classes upon completion of cruisers now building. Great Britain, if her present cruiser building program were completed, would have to scrap approximately 61,000 tons of the cruiser and destroyer class.

Replacement Provided

On the basis of a submarine limitation of 90,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain and 54,000 for Japan, the United States upon the completion of her present building program would have to scrap approximately 3,000 tons of submarines; Great Britain and Japan would be required to scrap none.

The proposed treaty provides for a gradual system of replacement of old vessels with new ones.

The American proposal, while it apparently makes the United States and other more equal navies closer to other powers, practically leaves the United States naval strength unchanged in comparison with the British Empire. The United States now has a navy consisting of 18 cruisers of 180,000 tons, 18 destroyers of 180,000 tons, 18 submarines of 90,000 tons, and 3 aircraft carriers of 135,000 tons. Japan has a navy consisting of 12 cruisers of 108,400 tons, 20 destroyers of 150,000 tons, 16 submarines of 54,000 tons, and 3 aircraft carriers of 81,000 tons.

BRITISH PROPOSAL COLDLY RECEIVED

Washington, June 20 — Great Britain's counter proposals to the American naval program presented at Geneva today met an unfavorable reception in Washington today.

Public comment was, of course, withheld, but frank criticism of the British suggestions was voiced privately by naval experts and officials intimately concerned with the world naval situation.

The heart of the British program is considered to be the suggestion that the tonnage of cruisers be limited to 7,000, and that the armament be reduced from eight-inch to six-inch guns.

Naval experts consider this proposal a clever move on the part of Britain's experts to gain for their country a marked advantage in cruiser strength. The "joker" in it is that Britain circles the globe with her naval bases and long cruising radius is not vitally necessary to her because of the comparatively short distances between her home.

AUSTRIAN MEDAL IS CONFERRED ON CHAMBERLIN

Meets President Hainisch and Chancellor Seipel: Fliers Given Ovation

Vienna, June 20—For the second time since his arrival in Europe in his airplane "Columbia," Aviator Clarence D. Chamberlin is today honored by the head of an European nation.

Chamberlin was invited to meet President Hainisch and Chancellor Seipel of Austria the former conferring the medal of the Austrian Order of Merit in recognition of the great non-stop flight from New York to Eisleben, Saxony. Chamberlin was accompanied by his flying companion, Charles A. Levine. Both were invited to be honor guests at a luncheon given by the state.

Chamberlin and Levine arrived last night in a heavy rain storm, but even the disagreeable weather failed to dampen the spirits of 15,000 excited and admiring Austrians who welcomed the Americans at Aspen Field, just outside this city.

Police Lose Control

So demonstrative did the crowd become that the police lost all control. The Austrians surged around the Americans cheering and waving hats while a band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine flew in another machine.

When word was received from Berlin: "They're off," a crowd of 50,000 gathered at the flying field, but all except about 15,000 departed when rain began to fall. The Americans received a continuous ovation all the way from the air depot to the Hotel Imperial. Before leaving the field both airmen were presented with diamond studded medals by the Aero Club of Austria.

Chamberlin and Levine expect to visit Prague, Budapest, Warsaw, Paris and possibly Rome before they complete their "swing round the circle." It has been decided not to fly to Moscow.

Under an escort of mounted police and hailed by admiring throngs the airmen drove through the streets of Vienna in state today.

Received by Premier

Accompanied by United States Minister Washburn the two fliers went to the governmental palace where they were received in audience by Premier Seipel, who gave them a warm greeting in the name of the Austrian government.

Mayor Seitz of Vienna entertains the fliers at an official dinner tonight and tomorrow President Hainisch will entertain them at luncheon, presenting each of them with a golden medal "for service."

On Wednesday the fliers will be entertained with a tea at the American legation.

On Thursday Chamberlin and Levine will fly to Prague, where President Masaryk has postponed his vacation in order to receive them.

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. Levine remained at their hotels today, resting and recuperating from their strenuous flight from Berlin yesterday.

Thousands Sing for Love of It In Saengerfest

CLEVELAND, June 20—Cleveland, as host to the thirty-sixth National Saengerfest of the North American Saengerbund, June 22-24, once more brings that organization into the world's eye.

The Saengerbund, while it no doubt originated in Germany, cradle of music and song, is an American institution, organized by German-American citizens to develop the singing voice. Forming and drilling choruses in various cities through the Middle West, extending from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Allegheny to the Rocky Mountains, it sings the songs of the great poets and composers of the world, especially encouraging new and perpetuating the old German folk songs, as well as those of America.

Many Cities Contribute

The Saengerfest in Cleveland has required months of work with more than 125 American cities contributing to this mighty symphony of voices. Rehearsals were necessary all over America. Two traveling directors, Hugo Anschuetz of St. Louis and Karl Reckzeh of Chicago, traveled more than 10,000 miles. Final rehearsals of 4,000 voices were scheduled for several days before the opening in Cleveland.

In addition, a symphony orchestra of 100 musicians had to be gathered.

One of the most famous symphony conductors in Europe, Bruno Walter, of the Berlin Staatsoper (State Opera) was especially invited to direct the Saengerfest.

It Is No Competition

The Saengerfest is in no way a competition among clubs. All sing together for the joy of the song and it comes but once in a generation to any one city, thus making it an event of unusual interest to music lovers.

In addition to the chorus and the symphony orchestra, the Cleveland program was designed to include three prominent soloists—Julia Claussen and Lawrence Tibbett of the Metropolitan Opera Company and Elsa Alsen of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

The magnitude of such a Saengerfest can hardly be adequately described to any one who has never attended such a performance. One can hardly imagine the overwhelming enormity of the combined voices in mighty harmony, responding to the slightest beckoning of the leader to bring out all the exquisite beauty of the song.

OHIO MECHANIC PAINTS PORTRAIT OF LINDBERGH

Uhrichsville Man Modeled Elephant Brought to Marion During Harding Campaign

Charles Edwards, mechanic of Uhrichsville, O., portrait painter of the late President Warren G. Harding during the presidential campaign of 1920, has completed a canvas of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, New York to Paris flier.

Edwards who puts in a full day as a mechanic in his home town and who does the artist's smock at nights, may present the likeness to Lindbergh, or in any event see that the picture is on view at the St. Louis Athletic Club.

The Uhrichsville man has never received any instruction in painting and hence his avocation by sketching his playmates at school. Edwards adapted his picture of Lindbergh from a rotogravure section of a newspaper.

Being about as adept with clay as with the brush, Edwards modeled an elephant which was carried to the Harding Home when a delegation from Tuscarawas County visited Marion in 1920.

Edwards next effort will be a heroic size painting of Lincoln which he will present to the Uhrichsville Schools.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS HEAR MEETING REPORT

Records Show Local Council Had One of Largest Membership Gains

A report of the annual state convention of the United Commercial Travelers, held at Ironton recently, was submitted to Marion Council No. 129 at its monthly meeting held Saturday night at the Community House on High-st. The report was made by Stanley Strayer, local delegate to the convention.

The report showed that Marion Council had one of the largest membership gains in the state during the last year, the local organization registering an increase of more than 12 per cent.

A report of the annual secretaries' conference was also made by E. H. Huggins, secretary of Marion Council. The convention, the reports showed, was one of the most successful in the history of the state organization.

James H. Anderson, Early Marion Resident Began His Diplomatic Career as President Lincoln Appointee

One of the first men of Marion who gained a name for himself in state, national and international diplomatic circles, was James House Anderson, the son of Thomas J. Anderson, one of the founders of the city.

Included in the many public offices that Anderson held was that of the United States consul at Hamburg, Germany, which he began holding with his appointment by President Lincoln in March, 1861. This position as consulate the Marion man held until 1866 when he tendered his resignation shortly after Lincoln was assassinated and President Johnson took the oath of office.

Revenue Collector

Upon his return home he was offered several public charges including the office of Chief Justice of Montana Territory which he declined because he did not wish to leave his home in Marion, but accepted the office of Collector of Internal Revenue of the Eighth Congressional District of Ohio. He held this office for several years.

During his life which started in Marion, March 16, 1833, he made friends with a great many of the leading statesmen of the day and was widely known as a diplomat in Washington circles. He was an intimate friend of President Lincoln, of Secretary of State Seward and John Sherman, of Ohio, and Carl Schurz, United States minister at Madrid who made an effort to influence him to return to diplomatic work, in the days following his resignation at Hamburg.

Studied at Wesleyan

Anderson studied at Ohio Wesleyan University, and graduated from the Cincinnati Law School in the spring of 1854. Upon his return to Marion he practiced law and was elected mayor in April, 1855 and in the October following was named prosecutor of Marion County. The next year he was united in marriage to Miss Princess A. Miller, the youngest daughter of David Miller, pioneer settler in Marion and Wyandot Counties.

Other public offices which he held some time in his life were: trustee Ohio State University, appointed Governor Bishop, vice president of the National Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and a member of the Old Northwest Geological Society and the Ohio State Archaeological Society.

The greatest work in his career was his part in the riddance of privateers and blockade runners who made headquarters of the city of Hamburg. For his work he received letters of recommendation from state officials and other public functionaries.

Diplomacy and Politics Share Lindy's Homecoming

Charlie Dragged Home Earlier Than He Really Wished, Is Belief

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 20 — Lindy wasn't hustled home in order to let President Coolidge welcome him without postponing his own departure for the Black Hills.

MYRON T. HERRICK

That's been intimated— that Lindy's good time in Europe was cut short to prevent delaying the presidential vacation.

It's true Charlie was dragged hither before he was very ready to come. It's true there were reasons why his return from abroad was much desired by the Washington government. It's true the young flyer's personal wishes were somewhat subordinated to what was deemed his country's best interests.

But as for the president's vacation—well, if that was thought of at all, at least it wasn't the principal consideration.

TRUSTWORTHY inside dope credits Ambassador Herrick, in Paris, with evolving the theory that Lindy had been overseas about long enough.

His line of reasoning was substantially thus:

Lindy's visit here (in France) has been a positively incredible success. It's transformed relations between the old and the new worlds, overnight, from nothing-to-brag-about to the-pleasantest-anybody-could-ask. The thing can't be improved on because it's perfection now. It would be tempting providence to keep it up. Something might go wrong.

IN just what words the ambassador clothed this thought, for the state department's benefit, we don't know, but it's certain that he put the idea across.

The state department also denies that it sent word to Lindy to hurry home.

Sure not.

It wouldn't have been diplomatic. The state department couldn't have made him do it, anyway. Suppose it had tried to, and Lindy had balked. A nice situation! He couldn't very well have been extradited.

However, as Charlie says, he "found a warship waiting" for him.

THAT politics figured in the diversion of Lindy's initial greeting from New York to Washington is a charge certain to be made in the next congress, when the aggrieved element will have a chance to get it into the record and circulate it—gratis.

Of course it can't be proved, and if it could, nothing could be done about it, but plenty of statesmen can jower about it—and will.

They say so already. They say, not only that the administration hornswaggled the other folk, as between New York and Washington, but discriminated against them on the capital committees until they raised such a roar that a few of them were taken care of at the last minute, to avoid looking boggish.

IT may seem cheap to associate politics and Lindy.

All the same, partisans on both sides agree that it would have been worth a lot to Al Smith to have been the first to grip Charlie's hand on his arrival, to have broken into the first American pictures with him and to have shared in the very first celebration over him.

Oh, yes, Al had his chance later, and it was a record blow-out, but the best judges declare a little bit of the razor edge was off, from Al's standpoint—not so far as New York was concerned, indeed, but nationally, which presumably is what the Cal-ites and the Al-ites are especially thinking about just now.

You simply can't get away from politics at this stage of the game in connection with anything — not in this town, at any rate.

Prize-Winning Beauty from Australia for Hollywood

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., June

Four customs inspectors and two quarantine physicians have turned in requisitions to their superior officers, demanding smoked glasses before they board any more ships from the Antipodes.

"If we've got to look on any more such dazzling beauty as this," they chorused, "we want protection for our eyes."

And it was all due to the arrival here of one of the prettiest daughters of Australia that has visited San Francisco—Miss Phyllis Gibbs, 18-year-old knockout from Sydney, who won a beauty contest over 2,000 entrants in Australia and New Zealand.

Her reward was the trip to America that brought her here and on to Hollywood. She was accompanied by her mother.

At quarantine, the Australian beauty was met by Eleanor Twohig—Miss San Francisco—and Vera Gordon, noted screen and stage star.

Miss Gibbs is a Sydney beauty parlor operator. Her father is a Sydney insurance broker. She swims, dances and plays tennis.

And girls—shes got LONG curly hair—no bob!

Oppose Career System of Diplomatic Appointments

Vice President Dawes Hands Out His Opinions on Subject

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 18—Vice President Dawes' views always are original and interesting, even though you may not agree with him.

For instance, generally speaking Dawes is no friends of "career men" in the diplomatic service. He admits an occasional deserving one, but he's an accident, Dawes says.

He opposes the "career" system of making appointments to diplomatic posts of much consequence. For minor secretarial positions he doesn't object to it, but not where outstanding ability and initiative are liable to be needed—unless the "career man" happens to be an exception, and then only in case he's proved it.

The vice president doesn't exactly stand pat for the old-fashioned, much-criticized system of "political appointments," but he does stand pat against the only remedy that ever has been suggested for it.

THE main complaint of the American diplomatic service always has been that the pay is too small—it sounds big, but the expenses are enormous—to support a representative at any of the important foreign capitals.

An aspirant begins at the bottom in the state department, as a "career man." That is, it's to be his life's work. He holds job after job—increasingly responsible ones—as a subordinate.

The time comes to make a minister of him—next an ambassador.

Then it comes out—he can't live, as a minister, on his pay, and he has no means of his own. So he can't accept.

TRUE, there are a few modest little legations that pay their way, but not nearly enough to go around among all the "career men."

There isn't a single embassy that a "career man" can afford to shoulder, unless he's rich, and there's a dearth of that kind of "career men."

When one of these expensive vacancies occurs and there's no financially well heeled "career man" to put in it, the only alternative is to stick in some citizen who never has had any diplomatic experience. Naturally the appointing power usually kills two birds with one stone by making a judicious party selection.

That's a "political appointment."

TWO objections have been raised to the "political" system.

One is that it's unfair. Time was when this didn't signify a cent's worth, but in recent years it's been a consideration whic hhas counted considerably. The present administration, especially, undoubtedly has favored "career men" whenever possible.

Objection No. 2 is that our "political" diplomats don't know their business and are continually being flim flammed by the trained representatives of other countries which pay more liberally.

NOW along comes Vice President Dawes, with the opinion that Objection No. 2 at least, doesn't hold water, and if Objection No. 2 doesn't then he thinks we shouldn't worry about the other objection.

He says the rich old codgers who get the "political appointments" may not know diplomacy, but they know their onions or they wouldn't have such bankrolls. The individual with enough brains to have graduated into the multimillionaire class is as safe as the next man to trust with a foreign embassy, in the vice president's judgment.

As for the "career" system—well that's advancement on a seniority basis—pretty, in theory—but does it bring home the bacon?

Who needs to be told that Vice President Dawes hails from Chicago.

BIG AIR TOUR OF 40 PLANES OFF JUNE 27

Annual Trip for Ford Trophy and Prizes Will Include 22 Cities

Detroit, June 20—Preparations have been completed for the departure from Detroit June 27 of 40 aerial voyageurs on the third annual national air tour, sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association and sponsored by the Detroit board of commerce. The fliers will compete for the Edsel B. Ford trophy and some $12,000 in cash prizes.

This year's route is the most ambitious yet attempted, being half again as long as the 1926 route. Twenty-two cities will be visited, as compared with 14 stops last year, but the journey is to be completed in the same length of time, two weeks.

Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, U. S. N., has placed at the disposal of the officials the Ford-Stout trimotored transport the navy recently purchased.

Starting Eastward

The itinerary extends from Detroit eastward, via Cleveland and Buffalo, through the Mohawk valley, with stops at Geneva, Schenectady, and then on to Boston. Then follow Hartford, New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The route calls for flying over the hazards at Allegheniles. From Pittsburgh the route turns southward, touching Dayton, Indianapolis and Memphis.

Then the Mississippi will be crossed with a halt at Pine Bluff, Ark., before the fleet points for Dallas, southern terminus.

Turning homeward, Tulsa, Wichita, Omaha, Moline, Chicago, Grand Rapids and Lansing will be visited.

Cities Pay Expenses

All the cities have agreed to post $1,000 guarantee as a share of the tour expenses, the receipts of which are borne by the Detroit board of commerce, Detroit real estate board, 20 odd civic clubs contributing through the Detroit Air Board and the Aircraft club and subscriptions from merchants and manufacturers.

In 1925 and 1926 the Ford trophy was won by Walter Beech, of Wichita, Kans., and if he is successful this year the trophy remains his permanent property. In addition to the Ford trophy there is an additional prize for "baby" planes of not more than 91 cubic inches displacement, put up for competition by William Stout and known as the William B. Stout Detroiter trophy. The award of this trophy is intended to encourage the entry of the smaller class of ships and a large number of entries already have been received.

The air tour is arranged to demonstrate, in a graphic manner, the essential safety of air travel.

COMET WILL BE 4,000,000 MILES OFF JUNE 27

Rushing Toward Us for Another Visit; 12 Times Size of Earth

Des Moines, Ia., June 20—Roaring through the heavens at an approximate speed of 1,000,000 miles a day, the Pons-Winnecke comet, which last made an appearance for the denizens of this earth in 1921, is rushing toward us for another visit. It is expected to come closest to earth the night of June 27, when it will be approximately 4,000,000 miles away.

After making this close approach astronomers figure the comet will veer away into space again. It is estimated to be 12 times as large as this earth. There is no danger, however, according to Dr. D. W. Morehouse, president of Drake University, and discoverer of the comet that bears his name, of the meteoric ball striking the earth or of even showering our planet with gaseous fragments. The earth's own atmosphere, he says, will prevent such a thing occurring.

Astronomers Busy

Astronomers all of the country, Dr. Morehouse says, are preparing to study the comet and take pictures of it June 27. It is plainly visible through their instruments at this time, but its comparative proximity to the earth the latter part of the month will offer an unusual opportunity for study.

What particularly interest scientists is whether or not the comet has a tail. In 1921 astronomers were astonished to find, when it approached the earth, that it was tailless. They had been expecting to determine at that time whether or not it carried in its tail deadly carbon monoxide gas, but when it appeared without its caudal accompaniment their preparations went for naught.

Gets New Tail

Recently, however, Prof. J. J. Nassau, astronomer at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, reported that it apparently had picked up a tail in its natral wanderings, as it appeared fully equipped. Dr. Morehouse, however, after taking a peep at the comet, contests this opinion. If it did pick up a tail, Dr. Morehouse says, it has again lost it, for it now appears without the usual gaseous train associated with comets.

The comet will not be visible to the naked eye, Dr. Morehouse says, but probably can be seen through a strong pair of field glasses. Its position will be near the moon, he says.

Why some homes are not popular—

People who do not, for some reason or other, give the subject much thought, rarely realize that perhaps the reason their home is not a popular one with their friends is frequently because of the furnishings.

When you weed out your worn and oft-times uncomfortable furniture; re-arrange your rooms; brighten them up; make them more comfortable, it may surprise you when you hear the comments of your friends. They will indicate that they enjoy coming to your home. And, you will enjoy that satisfaction.

Trade in your worn furniture as part payment on new things. That is what scores of Marion families are doing. Our Exchange Department Plan is becoming more popular every day.

night at the palatial suburban home of Harry Hall Knight, millionaire St. Louisan. Besides the host, the conference included Harold M. Bixby, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, Maj. William B. Robertson, head of the air mail line on which "Slim" served as a pilot, and B. F. Mahoney of San Diego. They were to meet again today.

These backers of the air hero shrouded their deliberations with secrecy. They declined to discuss his plans for the future but said an announcement would be made some time this week.

It was learned, though, that Lindy will leave St. Louis Wednesday or Thursday although his destination was withheld. One report stated the air hero would fly back to Washington to confer with government experts over the technical descriptions written into the log of his transatlantic flight.

To Publish Log

Lindy will publish the log within a few weeks and his publishers were said to have urged him to complete the copy at once.

Lindy was concerned with another problem—the ultimate disposition of his precious plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis." It was suggested to him that he turn it over as an exhibit to the National Museum in Washington but Lindy would not commit himself. "I can't go into that now," was his reply.

Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of the hero, who shares honors with him here, was scheduled to return to Detroit today. Her future was shrouded with mystery as friends of Lindy were understood to have urged her to give up her job as a school teacher in Detroit and come to live with him in St. Louis. Mrs. Lindbergh, however, has signed a contract to continue as a teacher next year in the Cass Technical High School at Detroit and recently said she "intended to keep her word."

Make St. Louis Center

As for the youth's business future, Lindy made it rather plain that he intends to remain in aviation. In speaking to 100,000 persons gathered in the open air at Forest Park Sunday, he said: "St. Louis is in a position to be the center of aviation in this country. With proper co-operation we can put St Louis as the center of aviation in this country."

His use of the pronoun "We" in this instance was not taken to include his famous plane but rather as a reference to his St. Louis backers.

The air hero spent an active Sunday. In the forenoon, he visited the U. S. Veterans Hospital at Jefferson Barracks, outside the city of St. Louis. In the afternoon, he flew his plane over the city and later attended the Forest Park celebration.

At night, he attended a municipal opera in the open air at Forest Park, while an audience of 12,000 cheered him. Other thousands, unable to get seats, stood outside to cheer.

Receives Commissions

Lindy became a full-fledged colonel during the day. He received two commissions, one as a colonel in the U. S. Army Reserve Corps from Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, and another, as a colonel in the Missouri National Guard, from Gov. Sam A. Baker.

The official functions here ended last night but Lindy has accepted an invitation to attend a dinner of the Industrial Club of St. Louis Tuesday night. This organizations raised $1,000,000 to advertise St. Louis. After that, Lindy will be free to tour the country.

again this week and in company with the auditor will complete the county-wide inspection.

Will Check Pumps

After July 1, the auditor says, his county sealer will return to all filling stations to inspect and test equipment.

Official seals will be placed only upon pumps which are up to official specifications in every detail. These seals will be placed where they can be readily seen by motorists, thus providing a guarantee of reliable service and full measure.

One of the leading oil companies operating here has 40 pumps in use only only three of the 40 comes up to requirements, the inspection revealed. This indicates that the prediction that at least 200 in the county must be provided with new equipment is not overdrawn, Auditor Thomas says.

Seek Good Service

The campaign to provide reliable and dependable gasoline service is in progress throughout the entire state under direction of the state division of weights and measures.

In some sections of the state complaints about short measure in gasoline sales have been numerous during the last few years. Complaints have been comparatively few in Marion County, officials here say.

"Motorists in the past have lost thousands of dollars every year through inefficient or deliberately crooked pumps and operators," W. D. Leech, chief of the state division of weights and measures, stated at his office in Columbus, Saturday. "There have been found in Ohio many gasoline pumps which have a secret spring or lever, which, when pressed, allows some of the gasoline purchased by the motorist to drain back into the storage tank, while the remainder is being drained through the hose into the automobile.

Sealed Lever

"All such pumps are being fitted with a safety appliance," Leech continued, "which makes it absolutely impossible for the gasoline to drain any place except through the hose to the automobile tank. This safety device is being manufactured under state specifications and consists of a lever that may be closed and sealed."

All pumps installed after Dec. 20, 1926, are of a visible type, approved by the state department, but it is necessary to install safety appliances on nearly all of these in use prior to that time, Leech pointed out. ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OFFICIAL SPEAKS HERE

Rev. E. J. Moore Appears at Epworth M. E. Morning Service

Rev. E. J. Moore, D. D., Columbus, state superintendent of the Anti Saloon League spoke on the subject, "Prohibition," in which he called attention to the success of the law, at a well-attended service yesterday morning at Epworth M. E. Church. Although the law has been long in gaining a hold on the nation, that fact, Mr. Moore attributed to wet propagandists and wet officials holding responsible positions and so preventing a nation-wide enforcement. Prohibition has proved a success and will prove still more successful in the future, he said.

A beautiful solo was sung by Mrs. Clarence L. Rutherford.

ficed for new and up-to-date cruiser tonnage, the American navy being now considerably deficient in light cruiser strength.

Others Make Suggestions

Gibson's proposals were immediately followed by British and Japanese suggestions.

Great Britain suggested an 11-point program centering about a reduction in the tonnage and armament of capital ships.

Japan proposed that there be no maximum limit for the tonnage of individual vessels.

The British proposals were offered by the Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty. The proposals were, in brief, as follows:

The tonnage of battleships should be reduced from 35,000 tons to 30,000 tons.

The size of guns on capital ships should be reduced from 15 inches to 13 1-2 inches.

Limit Plane Carriers

The displacement of aircraft carriers should be limited to 25,000 tons instead of 27,000 tons as at present.

Guns on aircraft carriers should be reduced from 8 inches to 6 inches.

The present 5 5 3 ratio should be applied to cruisers of 10,000 tons carrying 8 inch guns.

The effective life of eight-inch gun cruisers should be fixed at 24 years, destroyers at 20 years, and submarines at 15 years.

The number of cruisers larger than 10,000 tons should be subject to further discussion, according to the needs of each nation.

All future cruisers, after the number of 10,000-ton cruisers has been fixed, should be limited to 7,500 tons and six-inch guns.

Displacement of destroyer leaders should be limited to 1,750 tons and destroyers to 1,400 tons.

Guns in destroyers should be limited to five inches;

Makes Jap Suggestion

Submarine tonnage for the larger types should be limited to 1,700 tons and for the smaller types to 600 tons, and the armament for each should be restricted to 5-inch guns.

"We also think it advisable to discuss the possibilities of limiting the number of submarines, according to our various requirements," concluded Bridgeman.

Admiral Viscount Saito, voicing the Japanese proposals, suggested that each of the three powers, Great Britain, the United States and Japan, should be authorized to maintain their present total tonnage of surface auxiliary craft and submarines.

Admiral Saito suggested that the acquisition of ships in the future should be limited to replacement. He declared that "The requirements of each nation regarding auxiliary craft are reflected in what that nation actually possesses or its authorized program."

Hugh Gibson said he was favorably impressed by "the frank statements and good spirit shown" in the first session. He disclosed that Admiral Saito had already made some concessions and had dropped his previous suggestions that the tonnage of auxiliary craft and submarines should be consolidated, and had also dropped a suggestion for including in total tonnage ships under construction and those soon to become obsolete.

Conference Adjourns.

"The most important object lies in preventing expansion of armament without at the same time endangering the national security of any power party to the agreement," said Admiral Saito. "Such radical departure from existing conditions as may be calculated to shake the foundations on which a nation's sense of security rests should be carefully avoided."

Admiral Saito suggested that capital ships and aircraft carriers covered by the Washington treaty should be excluded from the present deliberations as well as ships not exceeding 700 tons and aircraft carriers of less than 10,000 tons.

The conference adjourned at the conclusion of Admiral Saito's speech without setting a date for another plenary conference, although the chief delegates will meet tomorrow to arrange the constitution of an executive committee.

Coolidge Sends Message

In opening the conference, Minister Gibson presented the delegates with a message from President Coolidge, in which he expressed his gratification over the assembly of the three powers.

"An agreement rendering impossible any form of naval competition between the three powers will have a lasting influence in cementing the present relations of good understanding between the three countries and constitute a definite step toward the common objective of a general limitation of armaments," said the president's message. Continuing, Gibson expressed hopes that Italy and France will [illegible] to unite into the conference in [illegible] equality, and expressed the hope that they may yet [illegible]

Perhaps the best line on the average New York City mentality may be had from its use of ticker tape and telephone books in greeting notables.

It's becoming manifest that the girls of ten years ago, who had themselves vaccinated on the leg so that the mark wouldn't show, hadn't the slightest conception of the probable course of progress.

Colleen Moore has been sued for $1,000,000 by a film company for the alleged breaking of a contract. Isn't it just possible that the worth of the services of some of these screen stars is a bit overestimated?

What we have been unable to decide thus far is whether to wait a bit in the hope that we may use it next summer, or have our Palm Beach suit dyed and lined.

The people of Illinois are said to be giving serious consideration to the idea of electing a woman as governor to succeed Mr. Small. There is this to be said for the idea; any change accomplished can hardly turn out to be a movement in retrogression.

The Nashville Banner intimates that the rainy, chilly weather they have been having down in Tennessee has about annihilated the mosquito. Either the kind we have up here is a different breed or ours have become acclimated.

"I do not know what others may think of it," observed the restaurant philosopher at luncheon today, "but to my mind any style of dress which forces women to have their legs reshaped by plastic surgery is barberous."

The French are building a 110-foot motor boat designed to cross the Atlantic in fifty hours. Between aeroplanes and fast motor boats, maybe our isolation will be broken occasionally despite the predictions of the friends of the League of Nations.

No doubt as a reflex of that spirit of kindliness which seems to permeate the entire nation when Lindbergh is the subject of its thought, no paper has shown the slightest inclination to stress the fact that his father was a congressman.

In addition to taking his citizenship rights away from him, because he sang to aid needy Russian refugees over in Paris, the soviet government has confiscated all Chaliapin's fine Russian estates. It's mighty dangerous for a man with property over in Russia to be humane, so long as the blood-stained banner of "Liberty and Equality" waves.

Marked Activity in the Air.

Although neither Lindbergh nor De Pinedo can be credited with having originated the wonderful aeronautical activity which prevails today, there can be no question but what the flight of the one from New York to Paris and that of the other over four continents, two oceans and many seas have given it impetus. The straight-away dash of the former has given other aviators added confidence and faith in the non-stop-flight capabilities of the aeroplane and inspired them to the contemplation of feats such as were never contemplated before. The brilliant feat of De Pinedo, who today in his home land of Italy is being given laurels for having accomplished one of the most hazardous feats every attempted by man, not excepting those of Lindbergh and Chamberlin, has added to the determination of other aviators to attempt enterprises of even more hazard, with the result that there is worldwide activity looking to such accomplishment in every land committed to the study of aeronautics.

The French are endeavoring, despite two attempts which ended in failure, to outdo both the time and distance records of Chamberlin. They are also preparing, despite the awful fate of Nungesser and Coli, to surpass the feat of Lindbergh by making the Atlantic dash from east to west. Great Britain is seeking to acquire the non-stop-flight distance record. De Pinedo, seeking added honors, proposes a record flight around the world. Our own aviators are preparing to hop off to the Hawaiian islands to the West, and Byrd in the east awaits favorable weather only to add to his polar-flight honors by a flight to some European or Asiatic point.

And now a German announces that he will start, June 25, for a direct flight from Berlin to San Francisco, hoping to make the trip in sixty hours.

Candidly, it is to be questioned if even so late as a year ago, any of us expected to see record of such accomplishments as these have been or even of thought of such feats as are today planned.

At last aviation has impressed its possibilities upon the world's mind, and its development as a practical, worldwide means of transportation should be near at hand.

We Make Government Costly.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the cost of state and local government has been steadily rising. For a number of years there has been rather general realization of the fact that this increase has been marked and out of all proportion to the increased cost of operating and maintaining many of the great corporate industries of the country, but not many of us have had the necessary data to make comparisons which would enable us to approximate the magnitude of the difference.

Statistics recently compiled and published by the National Industrial Conference board throw considerable light on the subject, the report published showing the aggregate increase that has occurred in the expenditures of our national, state and local governments since 1913, in which year, by way of illustration, the cost of government and the earnings of the railroads were about the same. Governmental costs that year were $2,920,000,000. The railway earnings were $3,193,000,000. As the governmental cost did not include the payment of any taxes and the railroads paid $122,000,000 taxes to the various governments—national, state and local—it is no more than fair to subtract the $122,000,000 more than fair to subtract the $122,000,000 taxes from the railroad earnings, which would leave them $3,071,000,000 against $2,920,000,000 expenses for government.

Twelve years pass, and we come to the year 1925, the last year covered by the report. In that year the expenses of government were $11,124,000,000. To make the comparison consistent with governmental expenditures in 1913, let us deduct $1,653,000,000, paid out in 1925 on principal and interest of the war debt. This leaves the cost of government for all purposes other than the cost of the war, $9,471,000,000, an increase of 225 per cent. over 1913. In 1925, the total earnings of the railroads after deducting taxes paid were $5,882,000,000, or ninety-one per cent. greater than 1913, the increase being due in large part to a forty per cent. increase in freight service rendered to shippers. We do not pretend to say just what has been the increased service rendered the public by the various governments, but we are very decidedly of the opinion that it has not amounted to forty per cent.

It will have been noted by the reader, of course, that we have compared the increased cost of government with the increased earnings of the railroad. We do not hold they are the same, but we do hold that they tell the comparative story, for the reason that it is hardly possible that the railroads of the land were operated at a loss for the twelve-year period considered, which would be necessary were the cost of their operation and maintenance greater than their earnings.

No, there is no getting away from the fact that the cost of government, particularly state and local government, has increased and is increasing beyond all reason. Apparently the bigger the duplicate, the bigger the tax rate. We raise valuations for taxation and possibly there may be a slightly lowered tax rate for a year or two, but generally for no longer a period than that. Soon the tax rate is back to what it was before valuations for taxing purposes were increased, and from that time on it keeps going up and up. The federal tax rate drops, but not state and local. They wipe out the saving in the federal tax, and more.

As we have said heretofore, we do not blame state and local officers wholly. They will spend all they can get, of course. All of us should know this. The majority of us do. Yet we keep on voting them more and more. We are won by the propagandist of this, that and the other proported improvement or alleged reform. A lot of us have certain little schemes of our own for which we would have the public as a whole pay. And we keep on voting money for our governments to spend.

When all is said, we are the makers of our own tax burdens, not those that we elect to office. We are the ones responsible for the boards and bureaus and commissions which add armies of employes to the payrolls of our various governments. We must shoulder responsibility for making the cost of government what it is. And if it goes yet higher, as it probably will, the responsibility will be ours.

If Field Marshal Haig hadn't shown more judgment in fighting than he shows when he talks, it's a lead-pipe cinch that we never would have gotten over in time to save him.

George Bernard Shaw says that proper English speech is a myth; that there are 42,767,500 dialects spoken in Britain, which rather goes to show that George has traveled around a bit over there, particularly in Wales.

It has developed that some of Harvard's athletes are backward in their studies. It was not necessary to develop the fact that some of them were backward in their athletics. It has been apparent right along.

Incidentally, it must have been a decided relief to newspaper readers to have gotten away from murders, the divorce courts, the bathing beauties, the riscue and the sordid and gotten up into the clear air of the heavens with the aviators.

Report has it that Charlie Chaplin is going to pay Lita $1,000,000 to end their marital differences. That's where hard-working spreaders of joy and sunshine in paragraphs have it all over the movie actors. By leading exemplary marital lives they save their millions.

FAITH.

O World, thou choosest not the better part!
It is not wisdom to be only wise,
And on the inward vision close the eyes,
But it is wisdom to believe the heart.
Columbus found a world, and had no chart,
Save one that faith deciphered in the skies;
To trust the soul's invincible surmise
Was all his science and his only art.
Our knowledge is a torch of smoky pine
That lights the pathway but one step ahead
Across a void of mystery and dread.
Bid, then, the tender light of faithe to shine
By which alone the mortal heart is led Unto the thinking of the thought divine.

Do Not Overwork the Brain.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

The brain and nervous system are the most important parts of a system made up of many vital parts. The brain presides over and rules the body. It decides the destiny of man.

Through the nervous sytem the brain is in constant communication with all parts of the body. It receives messages from the organs of taste, smell, touch, sight and hearing. It sends word, directing the movements of the body. It regulates the action of every muscle and even the expression of the face. After it takes charge, it is absolute soverign of voluntary effort.

But before conscious control is exercised, the nervous sytem performs its functions, forming habits—some good, some bad. It is in this early stage that the parent must supervise the young body. The parent must make sure that these early habits are desirable.

Some of our most important activities are beyond the control of the brain. The heart's action, the activity of the internal organs, and to a large extent the breathing, are automatic and independent actions.

But just how those involuntary functions are performed depends to a great extent upon the wisdom of the control exercised by the brain over the body. If the mind is well stored with knowledge, the intelligent application of this information will result in such conduct and manner of living as to guarantee health and vigor.

What sort of a brain have you? Is it a sensible and well stocked brain? Are you using it in such a way as to make you succeed in life, to make you useful to mankind, and to make you a good neighbor?

Topsy "just grew." She didn't bother about anything. In childhood's happy hour it is not so important to bother about things. But as we grew older we must take more and more care of this delicate nervous system or disaster will befall us.

Health is undermined by giving way to moods, tears, worry, temper, "nervous spells," and all those evidences of frailty of the nervous sytem. Of course many of these emotional states may be traced to physical disabilities. But whether they are cause or effect, we must train the brain to resist them.

Overwork is the chief cause of our ailments. This is a matter over which the brain has full authority.

Of course, it may be urged, dire necessity is responsible for overwork. I'll admit this, but nobody would overwork without consent of the brain. The normal mind has it within its power to forbid overwork, and the sensible mind will not permit this abuse of the nervous sytem and other parts of the body.

Train your mind, fill it with knowledge of how to live, and then direct your bodily functions and activities in such manner as to guarantee long life and useful service.

Editorial Comment.

RUSSIA.

A few years ago we were deeply moved with compassion for the poor people of Russia. They were under the iron heel of a despot. Men who only wanted such rights as every American supposes human-beings are born to rotted in prisons, or were shot to death in batches, and trainloads of victims were headed for Siberia.

Now Moscow makes Czarism seem respectable. The autocracy at least had a history. It was a national institution. It was subject to some restraints of custom or prudence. But the news from Russia today is just what we used to get from that country when the tyrant's heel was on its face. The prisons are full of political prisoners. They are taken out in batches to be stood up before the firing squad. Hundreds are being hurried to Siberia. Suicides are increasing. Moscow is in a state of panic, and foreigners are fleeing.

Yet Russia has had the benefit of a revolution. The czar was deposed, or compelled to abdicate, and he had his family were murdered. We were informed that the people had asserted themselves. They were going to control their own fate. The horrors of the autocracy were to be no more.

In fact, Russia has had two revolutions. One aimed at democracy and was overthrown in a few months by the Bolshevist revolution, which broke up the Duma and put in prison the members who were not quick enough in getting out of the country, and the movement for a constitutional convention was suppressed. They were said to be a peace-loving lot of people who carried through the second revolution. At their invitation the soldiers threw down rifles and went home. Soldiers were not needed under a government of universal beneficence determined only to maintain the rights of man.

Presently the army was reconstituted. The subaltern who was elected commander in chief by a soldiers' soviet disappeared. The czar's officers returned. Military discipline was maintained. In a little while the revolution had an army which was declared to be more efficient than that of the empire. It was successful against four serious efforts, not to restore the czar, but to establish democracy or some form of constitutional government.

Communistic theories largely went to pieces. The existing economic system is neither commune nor the free commercial society of civilsed nations. Under communism the nation starved and was an object of charity in so-called capitalistic countries. So communism had to be wholly or largely abandoned in agriculture. In industry it was maintained in part, but the men ruling in Moscow needed revenue, and therfore they needed industry and trade. In order to keep the wheels turning they had to slough off a good deal of communism, retaining enough to assure to the men who had seized power the means of retaining it.

No political liberty is tolerated. Opposition is suppressed, as it was by the Romanoffs. The same means are inspired by the same relentlessness. The rulers in Moscow have tried to extend their preposterous system into other countries and have been rebuffed. They fear that hostility abroad may encourage sedition at home, and so they are terrorizing their own country. The assassination by a Russian of the Moscow minister to Poland has alarmed the soviet regime, and it is now undertaking to bully and threaten Russia.

What the Russians do to one another the rest of the world has no disposition to interfere with. But it is not going to soviet theories and practices forcibly introduced in other countries, and it can not afford to allow Poland to be dominated by the Russian savages. Poor Poland has suffered enough from the despotism of the Russian autocracy without suffering also from despotism of the Russian Bolshevists.—Philadelphia Record.

SPEEDIER BRAKES

American automotive engineers have taken up a very important phase of accident prevention in turning their attention to perfecting speedier brakes for automobiles. The convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers held at French Lick Springs recently, took up the question of stopping cars in half the time and space now required on the highways.

Great progress was made when four-wheel brakes were introduced. At first the task of stopping a car in full motion was rather a complex one, but brakes have been perfected year after year until now it is possible to bring an automobile to a standstill in a comparatively short time. That time is not short enough, however, the engineers say, and efforts will be made to cut it down still further.

Since traffic grows heavier and the space between cars on the streets and highways becomes progressively less, the brake problem undoubtedly is one of the most pressing of all. Speed will not slacken; it will grow greater, if anything. Pedestrians apparently do not grow more cautious, although there is hope that, with all the safety education being disseminated, eventually they will. There are more obstacles on the roads all the time. The answer to the situation appears to be some device whereby cars steering toward disaster can stop more quickly.—Flint Journal.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A woman, learning to drive an automobile, killed one person and hurt six others. There is no greater selfishness and injustice than the thoughtlessness which leads an incompetent person to put in peril the lives of everybody in sight, while he is learning to do something.

Nobody has any business on the highway at the wheel of a motor car until he has had plenty of lessons in a forty-acre lot. A man who holds a child on his lap and lets the child handle the wheel of a car is a potential criminal, in addition to qualifying as a fool of the most ordinary type. And the definition of a moron is a man who drives an automobile when he is drunk.

A Beverly, Massachusetts, preacher attracts comment because he quits the pulpit to put out his shingle as a doctor. Nothing strange about that. He has only changed a few incidental habits. He hasn't changed his ideals or his purposes. He goes from one sort of service to another. Life's big task is to seek service. We have a right to seek and perform that which is most congenial to us, that which we can do best.

Conrad said of women: "A woman may be a fool, a sleepy fool, an agitated fool, a too awfully noxious fool, and she may even be simply stupid. But she is never dense. She's never made of wood through and through, as some men are. There is in woman always, somewhere, a spring. Whatever men don't know about women—and it may be a lot, or it may be very little—men and even fathers do know that much. And that is why so many are afraid of them."

Views of Those in Public Eye.

DR. HENRY S. PRITCHETT.

Henry Smith Pritchett was born at Fayette, Missouri, April 16, 1857. He was a student of astronomy at the United States naval observatory in 1876, became assistant astronomer of the same in 1878, and astronomer for the Morrison observatory, Glasgow, Missouri, in 1880. In 1882 Pritchett was the astronomer for the Transit-of-Venus expedition to New Zealand and in the following year he was made professor of astronomy and director of the observatory at Washington university, St. Louis. For six years, 1900 to 1906, Dr. Pritchett served as president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In the latter year he was made president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, a position which he now holds.

Speaking of teachers, Dr. Pritchett says:

"Many men and women drift into teaching, not by reason of any devotion to the teacher's life, but because it represents the easiest and most accessible path to a modest living.

"The consequence of this is that the teaching body, taken altogether, contains individuals from the highest to the most modest capacity, and the protection that is thrown over the teaching profession tends to retain in it a large number of individuals who have neither enthusiasm for their work nor any special fitness for it.

"Many a teacher who looks longingly at the rewards of a business life would realize, if he once submitted himself to the competition of business, that the ineffectiveness which has characterized his work as teacher would very quickly serve to exclude him from the path by which promotion and money rewards are to be won.

"In other words, our teaching population is not made up of a homogeneous body of human beings, alert, interested, devoted to their calling, and desiring the life of the teacher above that of any other. It is made up of men and women of all varieties of ability, many of whom have little interest in their work and many of whom are ill prepared to carry it out successfully. Furthermore, the ineffective teacher is protected and retained in his position as he would not be in business.

"Finally, it must be said that the man or woman who enters the calling of the teacher ought clearly to face the fact that the rewards of the teacher's life lie in another direction than that of high pay or accumulated fortune."

TWO DIVORCE SUITS FILED, ONE DISMISSED

George W. Butcher and Esther M. Moyer Bring Court Actions

Two divorce suits were started and one dismissed in the court of common pleas this morning.

George W. Butcher is plaintiff in a suit against Blanche I. Butcher and Esther M. Moyer filed a petition asking a divorce from Arlus R. Moyer.

The suit dismissed was that of Harriett E. Creasap against David B. Creasap, the dismissal being based upon an application filed by the plaintiff.

Mr. and Mrs. Butcher were married in 1912, according to the husband's petition, which charges that Mrs. Butcher deserted him in company with another man, taking with her their adopted son, Harold W., aged four years.

Through his attorney, H. E. Hill, the husband asks for a divorce, custody of the child and also requests that his wife be barred from claim to part ownership in a house and lot on Sharp-st.

In the Moyer suit the wife relates that she and Moyer were married Dec. 25, 1921 and have two children, Kreta Louise, aged three years, and Donald J., age 13 months. Death claimed a third child, the petition states.

Mrs. Moyer alleges that her husband subjected her to cruel and inhuman treatment during the last four years, striking her on numerous occasions and threatening to kill her and their children. Finally on June 18 of this year, she states, she was forced to call the police for protection.

The wife is now living at 183 Bainy and in her petition Mrs Moyer asks that the court grant a restraining order to prevent Moyer from visiting the home, asserting that she fears for the safety of herself and children.

In her petition, filed through the law firm of Donithen & Donithen, she asks for divorce, alimony and custody of the children

BEN BURGERT, AGED FIREMAN, DIES AT GALION

Infirmities Claim Life of Veteran Minute-Man; Funeral Tuesday

Galion, June 20—Galion's veteran fireman, former prominent business man and musician, Ben T. Burgert, died at his home, 202 N. Market st, at an early hour yesterday afternoon. Although in gradually declining health for some time, Burgert was not actually taken seriously ill until Friday. His death was due to the general infirmities of old age.

The name of this well known citizen is associated closely with the colorful history of the Galion fire department and is prominently linked with details of many former local activities. Early in youth, Burgert came to this city and soon began a career of firefighting with the volunteer department continuing as a minute man until a comparatively short time ago, when he retired as one of the country's oldest veterans. He was also a well known business man and for many years owned and operated a hardware store. Ability as a musician enabled Burgert to play in Galion's first city band an organization of state wide reputation.

Recently his 80th birthday anniversary was fittingly celebrated when city fireman and officials gathered at his home.

The body was prepared for burial at the Whittridge funeral home and later taken to the late home from which services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in charge of Rev. R. E. Porter of the Presbyterian church. Surviving are a son Harley of Cleveland, a daughter, Mrs. Lulu House, Galion, and an adopted daughter, Blossom, also of this city. Burgert's wife preceded him in death three years ago.

ARREST WOMAN, MAID IN MURDER CONSPIRACY

Fantastic and Amazing Story Revealed by New Jersey County Detective

New Brunswick, N. J., June 20 — Further evidence to substantiate the fantastic and amazing story of a plot to kill a family of three, is being sought by the authorities today as Miss Bessie Morse, 40, and well-to-do, was released upon $7,000 bail. The bail was furnished by Miss Morse's 84-year-old father, a wealthy land owner of prospect plains.

Miss Morse and her negro maid, Mamie Todd, 31, are charged with conspiracy to murder. The charge was made after County Detective David declared before Judge Kirkpatrick that evidence had been obtained to connect them with a plot to kill Miss Morse's sister, Mrs. Grace Dey, her husband, Elmer, and their adopted son, Raymond, 17.

The original plan, it is alleged, was to kill Miss Morse's father and mother. Her mother, Mrs. Catherine Morse, died of natural causes on April 24.

Miss Morse denies all charges and has engaged Freeman Woodbridge, of New Brunswick, to defend her.

The culmination of several weeks work by Detective David and his two aides, in which they posed as gunmen, came Friday with the arrest of Mamie Todd. Saturday, Miss Morse was arrested.

2,000 VOLUNTEER TO MAKE CAPITAL DRY

Late President's Pastor Leads Group That Will Tip Off Police

Washington, June 20—Led by Rev. William E. Abernethy, pastor of the late President Harding, 2,000 capital residents formed themselves today into a volunteer enforcement unit. Their object, is to inform the police and dry agents of liquor law violations.

"Our enemies," said Abernethy, "can call us cellar snoopers or anything they like. We mean business. We mean to clean up Washington. Of all the places in the country, surely Washington should observe the law."

Chief of Police Hunt attended the mass meeting which sponsored the dry volunteer work. He said the police would be glad of assistance, but warned the volunteers against being over zealous.

"Innocent persons must not be subjected to embarrassment and persecution," he warned. "Mere suspicion is not sufficient for a raid."

$300,000,000 TAX CUT CHRISTMAS PROMISE

Treasury Experts Preparing Data for Mellon's Report to Congress

Washington, June 20—Congress will hand the American people a Christmas present in the form of a tax cut of about $300,000,000 next December with the sanction of the treasury department, treasury officials predicted today.

While no definite announcement is expected before Secretary of the Treasury Mellon returns from a European trip in the fall, it is certain that a substantial cut will be approved.

Under-Secretary Ogden L. Mills and a corps of experts will study the tax situation during Mellon's absence and will have a report upon which the secretary will base his annual report to congress by September.

Income tax payments for the fiscal year ending June 30, under the 1926 revenue act, will exceed those in 1925, under the much higher rates of the 1925 law by nearly $500,000,000, experts predicted. This remarkable showing is in spite of the reduction of the tax burden by nearly $400,000,000 in the 1926 law.

The 1927 income tax collections, according to today's treasury figures, will pass $2,225,000,000 as compared to $1,982,000,000 during the first year's application of the present law.

$4,852,742.46 MARION COUNTY INDEBTEDNESS

Blanks for Financial Reports Mailed to Clerks by Auditor Thomas

The grand total of all public bonded indebtedness in Marion County on June 30, 1926 was $4,852,742.46 and whether this amount has increased or decreased will be ascertained when reports are received by County Auditor Earl E. Thomas in response to notices being mailed out from his office today.

Blanks for the reports are being sent to clerks of all municipalities, townships and school districts with instructions for filling in the debt figures as they stood on June 30 of this year. The totals will then be summarized and forwarded by Thomas to the state auditor and state department of education.

The total also includes the county's debt, which is compiled by the county auditor.

Believe Debt Increased

Although no definite figures are now available for making an authentic estimate, Auditor Thomas is of the opinion that the report will show that the total debt has increased during the last year. A reduction is expected, however, in the City of Marion debt, which is more than half of the county's grand total.

The city's debt on June 30, 1926, as shown by the report compiled on that date, was $2,483,176.41. Of this amount, $1,647,542.77 was general debt standing against all of the city's taxable property and $835,633.64 was special assessment debt.

The remainder of the 1926 debt total was as follows:

County, $890,122.28; villages, $40,826.60; townships $2,200; city of Marion schools, $872,500; all other school districts, $547,917.07.

The appointment of Judge Williamson will be in effect during the remainder of the term of Judge Martin and he will serve at any time in the absence of the presiding judge.

While the condition of Judge Martin's daughter is improved, it is uncertain just when Judge Martin will be able to be released from quarantine.

RUSSIAN WOMAN PLANS FLIGHT; ROME IS GOAL

Madame Lubo Philipp Expects To Fly Alone Over Atlantic

New York, June 20—Inspired by the achievement of Lindbergh, a woman—Madame Lubo Philipp, Russian aviatrix, plans to fly across the Atlantic Ocean within three weeks, she said today.

Rome is her goal, and she will fly alone.

"What a man can do a woman can do," she said. "I am confident I can make it."

She is a slender little woman of grace and daintiness. She made some 3,000 flights, many of them on the Russian front, during the war. She was granted her international pilot's license in Russia in November, 1911. A year later she broke all records of that time for altitude by women fliers, rising 8,000 feet and descending in six and one-half minutes.

"I am not a stunt flier," she said. "I have flown more than 3,000 times and more than 3,500 hours without accident. I have been waiting to make a transatlantic flight for a long time."

BYRD HOPES TO MAKE FLIGHT TUESDAY NIGHT

Flier Seeks to Get Away at Sunset Rather Than at Dawn, He Says

New York, June 20—Commander Richard E. Byrd hopes that weather conditions will permit him to hop off for Paris tomorrow night, or at the latest, Wednesday.

He wants to take off at sunset, instead of early in the morning as Lindbergh and Chamberlin did. Early morning had been considered the best time for the hop-off because of atmospheric conditions, but Byrd pointed out that by leaving about 6 o'clock in the evening he could land in Europe in daytime.

Byrd said today that he will seek an air line across the Atlantic which will afford the maximum in speed with the greatest margin of safety. Some day this course may be the every-day air route to Europe.

The huge three-motored plane American has been gone over thoroughly and is ready for the trip. Members of Byrd's crew, Bert Acosta, the pilot, and Lieut. G. O. Noville, the engineer, are waiting impatiently for the time for the take off. The name of the fourth person who may make the trip has not been revealed although it is reported he will be Bernt Balchen, formerly of the Norwegian navy.

TIME FOR PAYMENT OF JUNE TAXES EXTENDED

Formal Request of Treasurer Will Be Filed in Few Days with Commissioners

Time for payment of June taxes will be extended until July 20 in accordance with the usual custom, County Treasurer J. E. Messenger stated today. The treasurer expects to file a formal request for the extension with the county commissioners within the next few days.

Although June 20 is the statutory date for closing of the collection, the law permits an additional month on action by the commissioners. The board in Marion County always authorizes the extension.

The collection is now under way and total receipts are considerably larger than usual at this time, the treasurer stated today. Most of the payments made thus far have come from residents of the rural districts, although payments by city property owners have been unusually numerous, the records

Final Day

This was the final day for annual payment of cigaret taxes. When the treasurer's office opened this morning, only about half of the 119 cigaret dealers in the county had obtained their licenses. All had been notified that failure to pay their fees today would place them liable to prosecution for operating without a license and it was expected that this would bring in the tardy ones before the close of the day.

The annual license fee for retail cigaret dealers is $50 and for wholesalers $200.

PENNSYLVANIA MAKING PLANS FOR NEW ROUTE

Canton, Massillon, Wooster, Mansfield Cut Out in Low-Grade Track Layout

Crestline, June 20—Three engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad were making arrangements here today preparatory to starting a survey of ground for proposed track expansion between Crestline and Bucyrus. Plans for the expansion have been in a formulative state for a number of years and indications that the work was soon to be undertaken were seen here with the arrival of the engineering corps Saturday.

Canton, Massillon, Wooster and Mansfield would be cut out by a track-laying program designed as aid to the roads freight traffic. The new route would be a double track line of low grade level. The survey to be made here is a part of that program.

The proposed line, to be eighty miles long, would provide the Pennsylvania, virtually a new low grade route for western freight all the way from Crestline to Pittsburgh, Pa. It would be the largest piece of railroad work undertaken in northern Ohio in thirty years.

To Move Offices

With arrival here of the road's engineers, word was received that the telegraph offices of the Pennsylvania will be moved from Mansfield to Crestline.

The company plans to build four tracks between Crestline and Bucyrus to allow the heavy freight traffic of the road out of Detroit and Toledo to be detoured at Carrothers and come down to Bucyrus over the Sandusky short line and then east or west over the main line of Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago line of the company, avoiding the heavy grades that now exist on the Mansfield-Toledo branch between Mansfield and Tiffin.

Property Bought

For more than a year the Pennsylvania has been buying property adjacent to the right of way between Crestline and Bucyrus, and scarcely a week passes by but some new deed is filed in the county court house at Bucyrus.

Whether the contemplated move of expansion includes the much discussed night Pullman passenger service between Cincinnati and Detroit via Columbus, Bucyrus, Carrothers and Toledo is not known.

Level Route Sought

According to an official of the Pennsylvania, the road contemplates eventually adding two tracks to its present double track from Pittsburgh to Chicago, and the efforts to find a level route across eastern Ohio are construed as a step in preparation for this task.

The new line would start westward at a point near Louisville, O., and loop across country north of Canton to where the present route curves northward again.

At a point near Smithville, O., it would again leave the old line and go through or near Devonia and Jeromesville, cross Richland county near the infirmary and connect with the present line again at Toledo Junction, five miles northwest of Mansfield.

Three possible routes have been worked out for the extension.

The eastern connection of the new line probably would be near the terminus of the Bayard-Canton cutoff, which was completed last year from Bayard to Louisville.

Healthy Millions Take Kruschen Every Morning

"Why do so many healthy people take their two tablets of Kruschen Salts every morning?" asked Jim.

"To keep themselves healthy, you dumbell," answered Tim.

Tim is right: Millions of people with not one blessed thing the matter with them take their two tablets of Kruschen Salts in their coffee every morning because it keeps them feeling gloriously fit and fine.

It keeps the eliminating organs in an active healthy condition all the time, thus preventing poisonous waste from entering the blood stream.

Kruschen Salts is not a cathartic—you won't need a cathartic or even a laxative after you take your little daily dose of Kruschen for two weeks—your bowels, liver and kidneys will all be vigorous enough and energetic enough to bring about healthy elimination. 60 Tablets, 60 cents, at Bradley's Drug Store, and live druggists everywhere in the world. Get that Kruschen feeling. It's the little daily dose that does it.—Adv.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. It sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work is no longer a dread to me. If I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Bertha Meachan, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly ever since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California, letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Compound is made from roots and herbs and has been in use for over fifty years.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Columbus Evangelical Preaches at Oakland Evangelical

Rev. E. W. Petticord, Columbus, the evangelist in charge of revival services at Oakland Evangelical Church, preached three splendid sermons at well-attended services there yesterday, a joint session of the Sunday School and Church divisions in the morning and regular church services in the afternoon and last night.

A number were in attendance from Lindsey, Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus and Mt. Vernon, Rev. C. L. Lewis, president of Camp Schar at Mt. Vernon, leading in prayer at the afternoon service. Many responded to the invitations to the altar.

Reverend Petticord's address at the morning service was especially for young people. At that time James E. Campbell, Kokomo, Ind., another member of the evangelistic party, sang as a feature number, "Will the Circle Be Unbroken?"

Sunday afternoon Reverend Petticord preached on the subject, "Have You Received the Holy Ghost Since You Believed?" basing his talk on Acts 19-2. Mr. Campbell sang, "Down from His Glory."

"Give An Account of Thy Stewardship" was the subject of Reverend Petticord's sermon last night. Special musical numbers were a duet, "We Shall Shine as the Stars," sung by Mr. Campbell and Clyde Kelly, Columbus, third member of the party, and the solo number, "The Ninety and Nine," sung by Mr. Campbell.

Absolutely satisfactory for washing machine, washbowl and dishpan.

Absolutely satisfactory for washing fine sweaters, soft blankets, all garments.

Equally satisfactory for COLD-WATER washing of delicate colors.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwin's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

night, Larry raised his hand, in bidding defiance to the mys-eacon. He held his hand so mur rose and swelled through

, like banshee voices calling ead hidden, forgotten graves;
d grew and swelled and he d them as coming from hu-
ers. Now, down the slope of on which he was standing,
what at first glance appeared idled heaps of dirty burnouses, n blood; then, he saw the e and take on life; saw them stand, fares toward the light
eak. A multitude of hands
h and to his ears came a cry a great, rolling chant that hrough the night and echoed e valley, breaking with a jar-phony against the bluffs and n hills:
e Great Eye of the Prophet!
Mighty is the Eye, all-seeing and all-wise. We, your children, salute you and hasten to obey your summons. We, your children, are coming with food and we await your command. Mighty and all-seeing, O Eye, hail, hail, hail!"

With a shock he realized that the heaps had been transformed into men who had been kneeling as at prayer; who, when the beacon had sent its flaming rays across the valley, had risen to do it homage. As he continued to watch, he saw the figures stoop and pick up great bundles that had lain at their sides. These they swung across their shoulders. Larry strained his eyes and saw that the bundles were mighty bunches of dry faggots, held together with tough, fibrous vines. He imagined that fully a hundred people were below him, each with a share of the faggots. He wondered why they were carrying such strange burdens, and where.

Clear and sharp the eye on the peak held to its unwinking stare. Larry's arm was tired now from holding it high for the beams to strike the ring and he dropped his hand at his side. He did it reluctantly. It was as though he wanted to stand and hold his hand high, so that the ring would reflect the greater light, for just so long as the beacon on the peak should burn. He wondered curiously at this feeling he had, as a child might wonder over what made a catterpillar crawl or an ant dig holes in the sand.

"Those below him were moving, their faces still set toward the peak. He watched them filing off through the night with rhythmic tread and solemn mien, their huge bundles across their shoulders, their backs stooped low beneath the weight of their burdens. He waited until the last one had turned along the road and faded in the gloom, then started along the pathway, behind them, following where they led. He did not know their destination, but it was in his mind that they were heading toward the peak and the giant beacon and that if he followed them they eventually would lead him if not to the light itself, at least somewhere near it.

The eye on the peak winked out suddenly, as though a great curtain had been drawn across it; as though it were a giant search-light from which the current had suddenly been cut. Larry found himself walking through velvety blackness, for the mist over the moon was now a thick cloud, and there was no light. He followed the lead of his guides unaware, judging his course by the noise they made ahead and by an occasional glimpse of a flickering torch the burdenbearers were now carrying. He found the way was ascending once more, as though they were starting up the first long slope of a mountain. He wondered if this were the way that led up to the top of the peak itself, and if the Temple of Doom might lie ahead.

For an hour he followed the noises ahead of him, walking slowly lest he overtake the burden bearers, which he was of no mind to do. All at once he heard a steady tramp, tramp, tramp of feet behind him, as of a hurrying body of marchers coming on rapidly. He stepped aside, crouching in a clump of scrub balsam, hidden to wait.

Flickering lights came into sight around a bend in the pathway and he saw many marching men, armed and grim of face, striding upward. Long black rifles gleamed in the fickle glow of myriads of torches; polished swords hung at the sides of those who advanced. Their burnouses were trimmed short and clasped close; their turbans were low and squat, of the type the hill fighters wore. He recognized these as fighting men, mountain soldiers, and judging from their equipment they were mouslin elmakhals, the men of the rifle.

Marching swiftly, but silently, they passed him, hundreds and hundreds, passing so close that he might have spat upon those who marched on the inside. Came a break in the lines, then more flickering torches, more marching men, and now those who passed him were swarthy and long of limb, carrying heavy swords but no rifles. In their heavy, colorful sashes were revolvers with long barrels, most of them the old style single shot type. He recognized these men as the mouslin el-frada, or the men of the pistols.

"Great Scott," he murmured to himself. "These are regiments of fighting Moors, fiery Berber soldiers, who are passing; more, no doubt, will follow."

And he was right, for behind the men of the pistols came others, marchers who were giant, broad-shouldered men of mighty mould. Their shoulders were massive and their arms heavy and sinewy. They were long of leg and slim of girth. From the side of each of these dangled a highly burnished saber of finely turned steel, and here and there he caught a glimpse of silver mountings. These giant Berbers were the pride of all the Atlas, the fiercest fighters of the hills, whose business it was to clean up at close quarters with their heavy keen-edged blades. These were the highty mouslin elessakin, or men of the saber.

After these came a motley horde in nondescript attire, each bearing a goat skin that fairly bulged. They were the mountain el-ma, the men of the water; theirs was the task of keeping the fighters from suffering with thirst and woe be to the water bearer who allowed his precious skin of life-giving fluid to burst or become lost. Invariably there was a flaming arc of light and a swinging, singing sword, then the unlucky man of the water went on a long visit to Moulay Erd.ss.

In the rear marched the long, swinging columns of the mokhaznis, or ordinary soldiers, armed with every sort of weapon known to Islam, and large numbers of them carrying long, snaky lances from whose tips garish colors and bizarre flags flaunted in the breeze that had not died down. Rifles, swords, sabers, pistols—all were theirs to fight with and they marched with the steady, even tread of well disciplined fighters. Every so often came a kaid el-mia marching with them, captaining an even hundred of them, and for every ten such kaids there appeared one kaid el-rahu, or captain of a thousand.

For hours the swinging columns marched past Larry's hiding place in the scrub balsam and as he watched them moving ahead, silent save for the tread of their heavy feet, he visualized that there was underway a mighty gathering somewhere ahead, in honor of some event, or for some sinister purpose; he wondered briefly if the eye on the peak had been a signal that summoned them; if the night's performance of the evil light was a notice to this assembled throng, hidden somewhere in the valley, that it was time to be up and doing in some event of which he had no present knowledge. Yet, hold! In two days the celebration of the mouloud would be held, and with the mouloud some believed there was to be started a sudden, devastating movement against Spain. Could these men, these grim looking fighters, be massing to launch the attack? It seemed probable that this might be true, and if it were, then truly he was at the very seat of the start of hostilities and was, therefore, near the mysterious Temple.

It was possible, of course, that this was a ziara, or pilgrimage of some sort, but a pilgrimage would hardly be made up of armed men. Nay, this surely was a huge mahalla, or expeditionary force, that was gathering here in the night, like vultures come to a feast.

After the last marcher had passed and gone ahead through the night, Larry rose and stepped from his hiding place, and followed rapidly in the wake of the advancing army of Islam. He came finally to where the roadway split and stalked along the mountain in two different directions. Up a road that led to the right, he could see far, far up the peak, crawling along with their feeble lights and heavy burdens, the faggot bearers—or, at least, he sensed it was these, for the soldiers had taken the road to the left. He considered swiftly, then followed the latter.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Sudden Interest

MY speculation concerning the real reason for the presence of the four employes of Philip Vertizen in his office upon the Sunday morning of our scheduled conference ended abruptly as we reached the street again and Mr. Vertizen solicitously helped me into the limousine, the door of which Otto was holding open. It suddenly penetrated my consciousness that I was to have a whole wonderful day in the country with no qualms of conscience—thanks to Lillian and her promise to accompany me—concerning the propriety of acceding to Mr. Veritzen's plan of having our conference over his work on the balcony of an inn overlooking the Hudson instead of at his office. I think I would have been something more than human if I had not forgotten everything else and frankly reveled in the alluring prospect of the day's outing.

When Mr. Vertizen had given Lillian's address to his chauffeur, and the big car had swung away from the offices, he looked down quizzically at me.

"Puritan conscience all appeased?" he asked, smiling.

I started at the phraseology, all too familiar to me. I had heard it many times from Dicky's lips during our life together, and Lillian also was often wont to use the term. It gave me an eerie, uneasy feeling to hear the words from the lips of my employer. Had he observed me so closely that he knew the inhibitions which my early rigid training had laid upon me, or was his but a chance tossing shot?

Of course there was but one way to treat the query, and that was as if it were the merest trifle of idle banter. Therefore I answered his smiling query with a little laugh and as nonchalant a reply as I could manage.

"There isn't a twinge left in my system," I told him, and again I saw a spark flame for an instant far back in his brilliant eyes.

"I wish I could be sure of that," he said, then adroitly clipped the audacious phrase short and added a question.

"Isn't Mrs. Underwood working too hard again? She had a bad breakdown you know a few years ago."

I made the mental comment that no one in the world knew more of that catastrophe in Lillians life than I did. I shuddered involuntarily as I thought of that awful time when Lillian's life hung in the balance for so many days. "It was terrible," I acquiesced, and for a long time afterward I shared your fear that she was working too hard. Gradually I began to see, however, that work was medicine for her, and I ceased to worry about it. I believe she is in better health today than she has been in years, and I know that she never has worked so hard as she is doing now."

He looked at me thoughtfully.

"You know her very well, don't you?" he asked.

"She is the best friend I have in the world," I answered truthfully, and was furiously conscience that there was a quaver in the voice. I hate banal emotion, but my nerves were a bit upset from my almost sleepless night, and had not been completely calmed by my nap on the train. Then, too, I often find a little lump in my throat when Lillian's friendship for me is mentioned, and I realize what I owe to her.

"I count her as one of my best friends also," he added, "but I have not seen her as much as I would like during the past few years. And I am most interested and curious to know something concerning her. Do not answer if in the slightest degree you feel that you are violating a confidence, but I should like to know what has become of her husband, Harry Underwood."

THERE is now an exquisite successor to the old-time "sanitary pad." A new way that offers far greater protection. A way that ends the old problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "Kotex."

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending all danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "Kotex." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Be sure to get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex. In fairness to yourself, try it.

No wonder the loggers in the north woods lumber camps demand "bean-hole" beans for breakfast dinner and supper

Here's a Maine lumber camp cook's own recipe

A layer of beans
A layer of pork
Another layer of beans
And a layer of pork
Then a cup of molasses
And a cup of brown sugar

Sealed tightly in this great beanpot
Buried under a heaping pile of dying embers
Baked slowly for 12 hours
Mellow—tender as butter

Lumber camp cooks praise BEAN HOLE BEANS

North woods' logging camp cooks themselves were the first to recognize this latest triumph in bean baking.

"You have not only exactly reproduced the 'woods' flavor of genuine 'bean hole' beans," one writes, "but you have also matched the fine eating quality, their color and mealing tenderness."

A story session is scheduled for the Marion city recreational ball commission tonight at the Y. M. C. A. if all predictions come true.

Just what attitude the members of the commission will take towards the protest of Jim Lingo about Clarence Snyder playing first base for John Clarks Epworth No. 1 team last week is not known. But we predict that will be anything but favorable.

We admit that the situation is rather puzzling. Mr. Clark can cite a couple of good rules showing where he is innocent of violating any existing rules but other members of the commission will probably be ready to cite another by-law showing where their able president is all wrong.

At any rate, the sparks will fly before it's over.

An explanation of the Osgood-Steam Shovel postponement a week or so ago also will be heard tonight. This proposition has not yet been explained or considered by the commission but it is said the report circulating that it was not a legal postponement is a false rumor. That remains to be seen.

Another important problem which involves the standing of one of the best teams in the city will be brought before the commission but just what it is, has not yet been revealed.

Herbert Roese of Groveport, will coach the basketball squad of Waldo High School next season, it has been announced. Mr. Roese is the first new basketball mentor to be hired by county schools. He comes to Waldo with an excellent record.

The association recreational ball teams will start on the second round of games tonight with three tied for first place. According to the present schedule, only one more round of contests remain. Those tied for first place are Excavators, Erie Office and Erie Switchmen. Of the three, the Erie Office has been playing the best ball, although Excavators are threatening. It is easily possible that two of the three teams now leading may be tied for first place when the second rounds end and not impossible that the trio should again be in a deadlock.

J. E. Bohn has resigned as principal of Kenton High School to accept a similar position in Fremont. Bohn will be remembered here as the official who acted as referee in the Mansfield-Harding High game at Mansfield, which was protested a few days afterwards by Coach Sprout because of an admitted erroneous decision which Bohn is said to have made.

Although the resignation of Bohn has not yet been acted upon by the board of education at Kenton, it is rumored that they are angling for Robert Wright, former coach at Kenton and now athletic director at Mt. Union College, to take the job of principal.

Wright also is well-known in this vicinity.

One considerate person prominent in athetics in this city dropped a hint the other day when talking of the meeting of the recreational ball commission tonight, that the president should turn the presiding chair over to the vice-president when he took the floor to tell the members of the commission what's what.

Members of the Sulky City Racing Association are making extensive plans to furnish fans with the best entertainment possible at the fairgrounds' track the week while local hotel proprietors are busy making reservations for many prominent horsemen.

The statement that Marion will have the greatest display of race horses ever seen here during the meet next week is not exaggerated. Drivers well-known in racing circles also will be on hand.

The threatened "blow-off" in the boxing and wrestling game of Illinois that promised to lift the roof off that sport, has petered out to nothing. The investigation conducted by the state legislature ended with a clean bill for the athletic commission and with no censure for either the boxing or wrestling end of the sport.

Ohio Short Ship Circuit Races Open Here Tuesday

Four Days Of Racing Are Booked for Local Track; Three Events First Day

Marion County Fairgrounds Mecca for Horses and Horsemen from All Parts of Country; Local Stables Occupied by at Least 200 Horses

MARION today is the mecca of horses and horsemen from all parts of Ohio and surrounding states as well as from more distant cities in various portions of the United States.

At least 200 horses are occupying the barns at Marion County Fairgrounds, where the Ohio Short Ship Circuit harness race meeting will get under way tomorrow afternoon, and they were still coming early today.

The vanguard of the race entries appeared last Friday as the Mansfield races drew to a close and all was confusion near the barns here Saturday. Huge trucks, loaded with some of the finest horses in the country, plowed through the mud to deposit their precious cargo at the stables' door.

One view of the scene is enough to convince the most skeptical person that Marion will have one of the greatest harness race meetings ever witnessed on the local track.

And, shifting the scene to the uptown district, hotels report a rushing business as reservations are being made or taken by prominent horsemen of the country. Restaurants also are making preparations to handle the large crowds which the races are certain to bring to this city.

Four Days

There will be four days of racing. Three races are billed for Tuesday and Friday and four are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. Each day will witness a number of new features.

The meet will open Tuesday with three purse races, the 2:10 pace, 2:24 trot, and 2:20 pace.

The first named, the 2:10 pace, for a purse of $600, will bring together some of the best horses entered in the meet. Seven entries have been made and five of the seven, according to the "dope" offered by drivers, owners, and followers of the game, have been winners all season, but have never all met in the same race.

2:10 Pace

Tramp Smug, owned by A. L. Walters of Canton, sailed under the wire first in three straight heats of the 2:12 pace at Mansfield last week with Pru Grattan, W. W. Miller's entry from Newark, O., taking three seconds. Both are entered in the 2:10 pace here, with Dr. Volo, Red Cross, and Billie Fitch as their best competitors. Dr. Volo won the 2:10 pace at Mansfield in three straight heats but has never met the other two winners. Billie Fitch, driven by Vic Fleming of North Randall, is considered a "dark horse" by several able critics. All in all, the race promises to be one of the greatest of the meet.

Robert Etawah, another of Vic Fleming's entries, holds an excellent chance of winning the 2:24 trot, the second race of the day, according to advance information. He is favored among 23 other entries in this event. Lester Davis, a Canadian entry, also ranks among the leaders. Three Marion horses are entered in this event. The purse is $400.

2:20 Pace

Rythmic Todd, owned by H. D. King of Andover, O., breezed home a winner in the 2:20 pace at Mansfield, taking the event in three consecutive heats, and is expected to make the others step in that event here Tuesday afternoon. It will be the last race of the day. Purse is $500.

It is rumored, however, that Leeco Grattan, Jr., owned by M. L. Spaid of Cambridge, O., will be well up in front when the finish comes, as will Ex Rhea, Al B, and Laura B. Grattan Jr. took the 2:22 pace in the Mansfield meet but was seriously threatened by Ex Rhea, a gelding which won the first heat in that event.

Races will start at 2 o'clock.

ATHLETICS WALLOP VOSS FORDS, 13-2

MARION OUTFIT GETS 16 HITS OFF VISITORS

Steps into Old Hitting Stride; Bacon Gets Home Run

BY EDDIE SCHOENLEB
Sports Editor, The Star

STEPPING into their old hitting stride, the Marion Athletics yesterday afternoon slammed the ball all over the lot for 16 bingles and 13 runs to wallop Voss Fords of Columbus, 13 to 2, at Lincoln Park. It was the fifth victory of the season for the local crew.

While his teammates were taking their turn at hitting the ball and running the bases, Main had little trouble with the so-called sluggers from Columbus. They managed to touch him up for five hits, receiving not more than two in any one inning. Held hitless until the fourth frame, the visitors received two hits in that inning and another in the fifth. Two more were recorded in the ninth.

Marion received at least one hit in every inning except the third, with Rowan and Bacon leading the procession. Each was chalked up with four hits, Bacon's collection including a home-run, three-bagger, double and a single, and Rowan's group including a double and three singles.

The Marion sluggers sent Shackelford to the bench early in the fourth inning after collecting a total of nine hits off him in that time. Donald had little more success with the locals and seven more bingles were chalked up in the remaining stanzas.

The visitors' first run came in the sixth inning when Main passed three men in succession and A. Fensel hit a long fly into right field. Nunwiller pulled down the fly but was unable to get the ball back into the diamond in time to catch Myers coming home. Not a hit was made by the Fords in the sixth inning. A walk and two hits resulted in the other score in the ninth inning.

Marion began its hit and run spree early in the contest and tried to knock Shackelford out of the box in the first two innings. The local outfit gathered seven hits for as many runs in those two frames. After resting during the next two innings, the Athletics again began circling the sacks in the sixth, two in the seventh, and two more in the eighth.

Marion's work in the field was almost perfect, only one error being marked up against the boys. Voss Fords' performance, on the contrary, was anything but delightful to look upon. Seven marks went down in the error column before the massacre was completed.

The Marion battery, Main on the mound and Brashears on the receiving end, again was in perfect form with plenty of the "old time pep" there.

TUESDAY WILL BE "LADIES' DAY"

Tuesday, the first day the Marion Short Ship Circuit races, will be "Ladies' Day!" All women will be admitted free of charge on this day.

TUNNEY WILL LDEFEND FIGHT TITLE SEPT. 10

New York, June 20—World heavyweight champion Gene Tunney will defend his title against the winner of the Jack Dempsey-Jack Sharkey battle on or about Sept. 10, possibly at Chicago, it was learned here today.

The Dempsey-Sharkey bout is scheduled for the Yankee Stadium in this city on July 21. Promoter Tex Rickard, who is planning the heavyweight struggle, is understood to favor Chicago as the site of the title contest. Sept. 10 falls upon a Saturday. If the contest is staged on that date it probably will take place in the afternoon.

"BIG BILL" TILDEN WINS FIRST MATCH

Wimbledon, England, June 20—"Big Bill" Tilden inaugurated the Wimbledon tennis championship today with an easy victory over G. A. Pratt of England.

Playing before a huge and fashionable crowd in the center court, Tilden ran out a victory at 6-2, 6-1, 6-0, in a most casual manner.

Pratt had just barely managed to qualify for the tournament. Tilden, playing in a light hearted manner, occasionally drove into the net to make the score more interesting.

Kenton Reds Trim Marion PoormanNine

KENTON, June 20—The Kenton Reds baseball club chalked up their fifth straight win Sunday afternoon when they defeated the Poorman Garage team of Marion by the close score of 5 to 3 at Lake Idlewild park. A fair crowd saw the contest.

Both Clubs did their heaviest scoring in the first frame, the locals putting three runners across the plate for tallies while the visitors succeeded in getting two runs. Marion scored again in the fifth and the Redlegs were held scoreless until the last frame when three timely hits enabled them to annex a victory.

Hathcock, colored flash who several years ago starred with a professional club in Indianapolis, struck out 11 batters, issued two passes and allowed six hits, while "Miner" King of the Independents, succeeded in striking out but four men, allowed one pass and was touched for eight hits. Both clubs made a total of nine errors. These were responsible for at least two of Marion's runs.

BUTLER'S TEAM TO PLAY UPPER SANDUSKY BANKS

Butler's Store recreational ball team will play the Upper Sandusky Banks at 6:15 tonight on the Silk Mills diamond. The Marion battery will be Shults and Messenger.

Every living human being that is past middle age knows some acquaintance who most unexpectedly became a great personage.

Bincos Trim Morral, 4-2; Hold Lead In Tri-County Loop; Get Only Three Hits

McIntire Allows Locals Only Three Hits, but Walks and Errors Are Fatal to Hopes of Visitors; Second Victory for Bincos

THE Marion Bincos retained their lead in the Tri-County baseball league yesterday afternoon when they turned in a 4 to 2 victory of Morral in a preliminary game at Lincoln Park. A fair crowd witnessed the contest.

The Bincos have won two and suffered no defeats so far this season.

While the visitors collected five hits off John Rife, Marion succeeded in getting only three bingles off McIntire, the Morral hurler. A hit and a walk resulted in Marions first run in the third inning and a hit, walk, and error netted three more in the fourth stanza.

Score in First

Morral bunched hits in the first inning and scored its only two runs in that frame.

The Bincos displayed some neat fielding and, with the exception of a couple of trifling errors, played fine big league style. The game was featured by several brilliant catches and fielding feats by the locals.

Here's the summary:

And he was out—in the cold, to be sure, but how good the fresh air felt. Peter took two or three deep breaths and then he gave a startled cry.

"Why, the day is almost over, the sun is setting. What a long time I must have been rambling around in Moletown. Night will be along before a great while, and, gee Whillikens! I had almost forgotten my date tonight. I promised to meet Cutie Fox by the barnyard gate and I must get there first and warn Towser. Sort of hate to do it, the fellow was so good to me, but I can't let him steal our chickens. The more I think of it, the meaner it seems, not only on Fox's account, but Towser is going to feel so badly when he finds out the friend he trusted is a thief."

the convention is the method of reducing a minimum the "questionaire habit." According to Winters, school officials are called on too often to answer numerous questions that could be obtained from publishing detailed reports.

Among the Marion County delegation who expect to attend the convention Tuesday include, K. H. Marshall, principal of Harding High School, C. B. Rayburn, county superintendent of schools, H. R. George, superintendent of Green Camp Schools, M. D. Shumaker of Caledonia, B. A. Moore of Meeker, L. B. Brown of Prospect, and J. M. Diley of Pleasant school.

A MARION NURSE HIGHLY INDORSES THE NEW KONJOLA

She Tells How Celebrated Medicine Ended Years of Stomach Trouble.

Konjola has received the most startling voluntary testimonials ever written by Marion people. In every section of the city, and nearby towns, men and women are describing the work of this new medicine after it has delivered them from their health troubles, such as disordered stomach, liver, kidneys or rheumatic pains.

MRS. EVA TRICKEY

Just a few days ago, Mrs. Eva Trickey, a practising nurse, address 797 E. Center-st, Marion, made the following statement about Konjola in her report to the Konjola Man at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 S. Main-st, this city, who is interviewing throngs of people daily and explaining Konjola.

"This is the first medicine that actually ended my stomach troubles," said Mrs. Trickey, "and I know it is only right to indorse such a remedy to others who suffer.

"I had my first attack of stomach trouble ten years ago. In recent years my case grew worse. Invariably, after every meal, quantities of gas would form, crowding my chest and heart. A feeling like a heavy rock appeared in my stomach, then shortness of breath. Sharp pains centered around my heart muscles. These attacks lasted for days at a time and kept growing more severe. At last I was subject to incessant vomiting. Nothing I ate would digest. I was dreadfully nervous at all times.

"I tried special dieting for weeks at a time, took special treatments and had the best attention, but nothing would stop my troubles. I heard of this much talked about medicine, the new Konjola. I made a trial of it, and it proved beyond a shadow of a doubt to be exactly what I needed. I am entirely free of stomach troubles now. My digestion is perfect and I eat what I want. The heart flutterings, heavy feeling in my stomach and shortness of breath are all things of the past. I completed my course of Konjola and waited a few weeks to see if my old chaunts would return, but I have never suffered since. This is the first time I can say I am entirely out of misery in years, and I am strongly recommending this Konjola because I know what the medicine will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump & Sams), 121 S. Main-st, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.—Adv.

PYTHIAN GRAVES ARE DECORATED BY LODGES

Representatives of Three Local Orders Place Flowers on Cemetery Mounds

In accordance with an annual custom of the order, representatives of three local Knights of Pythias organizations visited Marion Cemetery yesterday morning and placed flowers on the graves of deceased members. Committees representing Marion Lodge No. 402, Canby Lodge No. 51 and Marion Company No. 15, Uniform Rank, had charge of the rites.

Graves of all deceased members of these three organizations as well as the dead of other K. of P. lodges buried here were included in the annual memorial tribute. There are 124 Pythian graves at Marion cemetery.

No formal ceremonies were held, the date for the annual Pythian memorial service being in February.

Chairmen of the committees, which included about 20 members of the three organizations, were Louis Uhl of Marion Lodge No. 402, James McCoy of Canby Lodge No. 51 and Joseph H. Kerr of Marion Company No. 15.

RAILS IN LEAD WHILE MARKET HAS FIRM TONE

Trend is Upward; Spectacular Price Changes Are Scarce

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds irregular; foreign bonds regular; call money four per cent; grain steady; copper irregular; oil reactionary; cotton reactionary; rubber weak; sugar firm; pig iron steady; foreign exchange steady.

New York, June 20—Under the lead of the merger-railroad stocks and the better grade of investment-industrials, the market maintained a firm tone today, with prices generally inclined upward. There were no spectacular price changes, and the attitude of the market was one of caution while awaiting the weekly report on brokers' loans after the close. Pools in the specialty stocks continue their activities in behalf of their favorites, with Vivaudou an active and aggressive ground-gainer.

There was no indication of a tightening of the money market. The swollen resources of the banking institutions, combined with the liberal purchases and imports of gold by the reserve system, the increase in individual fortunes and the strong financial condition of the corporations, have contributed as much as anything to the strong position of the stock market.

From the opening gong, it was evident that the railroad stocks would have the right of way. Heavy buying demand appeared for the three stocks of the southwestern merger group, the Katy, Cotton Belt and Kansas City Southern. Then the major Nickel Plate stock flashed to the front with a gain of nearly 6 points in comparatively small volume of trading, while New Haven, Rock Island and other of the transportation favorites resumed their forward move.

Business and industrial reports of the day were practically unchanged. General Motors was in demand above 204 and Hudson above 85. White was the outstanding exception, the stock falling to a new low at 40 on rumors of a possible reduction of the dividend.

LARGE SUPPLY OF HOGS FORCES MARKETS DOWN

Chicago, June 20—Today's supply of hogs proved excessive for the immediate demand and the market started 5 to 10c lower. The decline was mostly on the heavy weights that went at $8.40 to $8.75 for the bulk with top for 200 lb. hogs at $8.80.

Cattle receipts were also large but prices held steady on the good to choice steers and most of the dry fed cows and heifers. Bulls showed a weaker tendency.

WILL SATISFY LARGE NUMBER OF WESTERNERS

President Realizes That Section of Country Must Be Won by Him

Rapid City, S. D., June 20—President Coolidge, according to all indications, will leave the Black Hills of South Dakota this fall with a draft of a farm relief bill in his pocket, which will satisfy a great number of the farmers of the west, or at least be of such a nature as to be palatable.

Summering here in the heart of the region that fought so vigorously for the vetoed McNary-Haugen Bill with its equalization fee and alleged "price-fixing" feature, the president already apparently has made long strides toward winning over the western agrarians.

"Why, no," say a number of South Dakotans who manifestly are elated over Mr. Coolidge's presence in the Black Hills, "I never was for the McNary-Haugen Bill." And their more cautious colleagues assert that at the time they were desperate and thought that, nothing else having done any good, it "was worth a chance."

Norbeck Convert

Perhaps the first major convert to the administration viewpoint is Senator Norbeck. The South Dakota political leader voted for the McNary-Haugen bill, but the president's decision to summer here probably will make it difficult for him to oppose the Coolidge program in the next session of congress.

Before the season is over, Mr. Coolidge will have conferred with a number of agricultural leaders. He made it known last week at the temporary executive offices that he looked forward to quite a few meetings on the subject of farm relief.

The importance of formulating an acceptable compromise farm program has been impressed on the president quite forcibly. Just before his departure from Washington, he invited Governor Hammill of Iowa to the White House. Iowa at present is leaning strongly toward the candidacy of Frank O. Lowen of Illinois, generally accepted champion of the farmer, and Hammill has been fairly accurately identified with the movement.

"Iowa," said Hammill at the time, will be for President Coolidge for re-election in 1928—provided he works out a broad and satisfactory program of relief which will pass the next session of congress. Otherwise, Iowa regards Lowden in a very friendly fashion."

The industrial east and south are regarded as "in the bag" by Coolidge managers insofar as the 1928 convention is concerned. It is this section which has to be won over and to do that the farmer must be satisfied, they believe. Consequently, agricultural relief is expected to come in for a big play before the summer is over.

VATICAN MAY TRY TO END WAR AMONG CHINESE

Pope Devotes Most of Encyclical to Trouble; Praises Mexican Churchmen

Rome, June 20—Possible attempts by the vatican to end the civil war in China, were hinted at today by the pope in an encyclical to the consistory now in session.

The pope devoted most of the encyclical to the Chinese warfare, to praise of the churchmen in Mexico for their attitude in the religious controversy there. He also made references to the French nationalists of the action francaise.

After deploring the horrors of the Chinese civil war, the pope expressed the opinion that these horrors are due less to the Chinese people, whom he described as peace loving, than to "imported subversive doctrines."

Praises Missionaries

Reaffirming the vatican's love and regard for the ancient nation of China, the pope praised the missionaries and Christians for their faithful service in China, and intimated that he is now considering launching a peace appeal to end the warfare.

Turning to the religious controversy in Mexico the pope declared the "shedding of blood for religious liberty and the deeds of the bishops, the clergy and the brethren are among the illustrious deeds in the history of the church."

The episcopate of the United States also came in for papal praise in connection with the Mexican controversy, the pope declaring that the American episcopate is doing its best to illuminate world opinion regarding the conditions of the Catholic Church in Mexico.

Throughout the entire encyclical time there was a plea for peace and prayers that troubled conditions now existent may soon pass away.

SEVEN YOUTHS GO TO MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Four Others To Start 30-Day Periods in Other Forts July 2

Eight members of the Marion County delegation for the Citizens Military Training Camps left today for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, to start a 30-day sojourn at Camp Harrison at the expense of the government.

The Marion County youths leaving today include: Richard Walker, 461 Hane-av; Earl Howison, 252 Lee-st; Herman L. Fischer, 749 York-st; Vaughn D. Geer, 268 Park-blvd; Paul Spath, 318 Farming-st; Walter E. Price, 201 Summit-st, and Harold J. Richards, 548 Avondale-av.

Robert O'Conner, Bradford-st, after his application had been rejected to attend Fort Benjamin Harrison, because of its lateness in being filed, has written a request that he be permitted to attend the camp session at Fort Thomas which will start July 2.

Other Members

Other members of the Marion delegation will leave for their respective camps about July 2, according to E. H. Shade, Marion County chairman of the C. M. T. C. Albert Fischer, 749 York-st, will attend the session at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and Rodney Sykes, 225 Chase-st will go to Camp Knox, Kentucky. Owing to the lateness of his application it is likely that John Humeston, 329 Davids-st, will accompany Fischer to Fort Thomas.

The Marion County contingent, Mr. Shade states, forms part of the largest C. M. T. C. delegation that has ever been ordered to these army posts. It is expected that over 2,000 young men from northern Indiana, northern Ohio and the Panhandle district of West Virginia will attend the session at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

To date over 2,300 have applied for Camp Knox and over 1,400 have applied for Fort Thomas.

GAS SHUT OFF HERE TUESDAY

Marion's gas supply will be turned off promptly at 12 o'clock Tuesday noon.

In view of this M. A. Mickley, manager of the Marion office of the Logan Gas Co., today reiterated his warning to gas consumers to shut off all valves and turn off the fuel supply under hot water tanks before noon.

The gas supply is to be shut off to enable workmen to make changes in the main on Columbia-st, preliminary to resurfacing work on that thoroughfare.

FATHER'S DAY IS OBSERVED IN LOCAL CHURCHES

First Reformed and Central Christian Congregations Hold Special Services

Special observance of Father's Day was held in two local churches yesterday, both services being well-attended. At First Reformed Church a combined Sunday School and Church service was held between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock while yesterday morning at Central Christian Church an appropriate program was given.

Father's Day observance at First Reformed Church was in charge of E. L. Cleveland, assistant Sunday School superintendent, and opened with responsive readings led by the fathers. Prayer was offered by S. H. Keller, a teacher, after which the regular Sunday School class sessions were held.

Lesson study was conducted by H. W. Knuckle, a teacher after which Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, pastor of the church, gave an interesting report of the state Sunday School convention at Portsmouth last week to which he was a delegate. Readings on "Dad" were given by E. Harold Klingel, Earl Howison, Forest Conklin, and Miss Marguerite Conklin, after which Reverend Weckmueller led in prayer.

Principal Address

The principal address of the service, on the subject, "Fathers," was given by W. E. Bartholomew, who upheld fathers as ideals for sons and emphasized the fact that much joy can be given a father by a good son. The service closed with benediction. Ray Reidenbaugh, assistant chorister, led the singing and Herbert Goedicke, former Sunday School superintendent, played the piano accompaniment.

During July and August each Sunday morning service at the Reformed Church will be a joint session of the Sunday School and church departments between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock. Sunday night services for the summer will conclude with the service next Sunday night.

Central Program

At Central Christian Church, the fathers, of which there were many, appeared wearing badges denoting their position. The program opened with the singing in unison, of "America," and "Faith of Our Fathers," led by a chorus of fathers, and with prayer, led by W. B. Stafford. George Mayer conducted the responsive readings after which a talk, "High Spots in the Life of Father," was given by C. E. Geissler, superintendent of the Sunday School. A recitation, "When Father Gets Sick" was given by Miss Mary Frances Schooley after which a solo, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer", was sung by George Bainey. A talk, "Father" was given by Ollie Schneider and the program closed with a delightful address on "Fathers" given by Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of the church.

Awards Made

Awards were made a number of the outstanding fathers, James Lewis for having the most sons, Frank Fairchild for having a son, John, who showed the closest resemblance to his father of any son present, James F. Ansley, Owens Station, the father who had come the greatest distance, and to Willis Hipsher, 79, the oldest father, and George Bainey, 23, the youngest father.

Father's Day was observed throughout the brotherhood of Christian Churches Sunday.

Thursday, June 23, members of the Brotherhood Class will hold their annual strawberry supper at the home of E. C. Hootman, Prospect-rd, the east side being the guests of the west side as a result of a contest which closed yesterday.
